Report.

REPORT of the PROCEEDINGS of the REGISTRAR of FRIENDLY SOCIETIES in England, in his Office of Registrar, and of the principal Matters transacted by FRIENDLY SOCIETIES, which have come under his cognizance during the past Year, and of the Particulars of every Award made by him under the Provisions of the 23 & 24 Vict. c. 58, s. 1 & 2.

DURING the year 1862 the Registrar has examined and certified the Rules of 1,277 Friendly Societies, and also the alterations of the Rules of 1,277 Societies; making a total of 2,554 certificates.

Nineteen Societies have deposited their Rules with the Registrar under the 18 & 19 Vict. c. 63, s. 44.

Notices of dissolution have been received from 137 Friendly Societies during the year ending 31 December 1861, of which number 67 were advertised in the "London Gazette," pursuant to 23 & 24 Vict. c. 58, s. 3.

During the year 1861 the sum of 1614 l. 3 s. 7 d. in the Bank of England, and in Savings Banks, has been transferred by the Registrar into the names of Trustees appointed by Friendly Societies, in the places of others removed, absent, &c., pursuant to 18 & 19 Vict. c. 63, s. 36.

Since the Registrar's last Report, no Act of Parliament has passed relating to Friendly Societies.

The following is a list, arranged according to Counties, of the Friendly Societies which, since the Registrar's last Report, have been dissolved, and the dissolution advertised in the "London Gazette," pursuant to 23 & 24 Vict. c. 58, s. 3. Those marked * were dissolved by the Registrar, and the particulars of his awards will be found at the end of the list.

Kent.—Friendly United Benefit Society, Old George, Globe-lane, Chatham. This society was established in 1805, and consisted of 78 members. At the time of its dissolution the total amount of the funds was only 35*l.* 8*s.* 9*d.*, which was divided among the members on the 9th April 1863.

The Friendly Society, at the sign of the Castle, Lewisham, was established on the 9th April 1798. The application, dated the 23d October 1862, stated that the number of members at that time was only 68; that for some years the club had been gradually declining and becoming more difficult to be carried on, in consequence of the numerous claims on its funds and the great decrease in its members, and especially from most of the young members having left. There were several members who had been 49 and 50 years in the club; two of them more than 60 years members. Five of the members, in the last 24 years, had received more than 650*l.* The whole of the property of the society was 300*l.* Three per Cents. The money payable to the pensioners led to the insolvency of the society.

Middlesex.—Union Benefit Society, established 1791, at the Berkeley Arms, John-street, Berkeley-square. The society consisted of 32 members, and at a meeting held on 9 February 1863 it was dissolved, pursuant to 18 & 19 Vict. c. 63, s. 13, and left to the Registrar, pursuant to 23 & 24 Vict. c. 58, s. 1, to divide the money among the members. The amount divided was 1,573*l.* 15*s.* 9*d.*

Eastern Champion Benefit Society, Black Horse, Lemon-street, Wellclose-square. This society was established in 1827, and was dissolved dissolved by the members on the 14th July 1863, the division of the funds being left to the Registrar, pursuant to 23 & 54 Vict. c. 58, s. 1. The number of members was 24, and the amount of the funds, 192 l. 16 s. 7 d.

Society of Brotherly Love, Black Boy Inn, Guildhall-street, Bury St. Edmunds. "The number of members was only 48; and in their application to the Registrar they state, that when the society was first instituted, no provision was made for superannuated men; consequently we find that we are unable to support the increasing call upon our funds.

"No surgeon was provided in the first instance, but through other societies having a surgeon, we were obliged to have one, but no funds were set aside for that purpose.

"We have not had a new member to join us to continue with us for the last eight years.

"In the year 1855 we added one-third to our weekly contribution, namely, up to that year we paid 4½ d. per week. It was then thought if we paid 6 d. per week we might increase the stock, and so pay something more to the aged men, but this has proved a failure, for, instead of increasing our funds, we are losing, and from the advanced age of many of our members, we are likely to have more superannuated members; thus we shall have to find more money for superannuated men than for the sick, for which the society was first raised, and for which no other provision was made.

"We also feel that it will be better to divide the money now, and invest our shares in the Post Office Bank, than to wait and get nothing; for, you see, there is not sufficient funds to bury us all, leaving alone the other claims upon our society."

Not more than one or two of the societies dissolved during the past year had tables prepared by an actuary, but adopted a uniform monthly payment for all members entitled to be admitted, in addition to which, in most of them, after a certain age the members were entitled to a pension, or, in other words, an annuity, to secure which their contributions were inadequate. Most of them were held at public-houses, and a monthly contribution was required to be spent in beer.

Numerous complaints have been made to the Registrar of the extravagant charges of the management of Friendly Societies, particularly of those who have extensive agencies over the kingdom.

The following is a copy of the last Annual Report of the Royal Liver Friendly Society; the number of members is not stated, but the Registrar has been informed by the Society that there are about 80,000 members:—

Report.

This Society has agents in many parts of the kingdom at great distances from Liverpool, and it may be useful, therefore, to state that it is not now necessary for disputed claims to be referred to Liverpool, as in April 1862 a rule (No. 10) was certified which provides that,

In districts out of Liverpool, when matters are referred to arbitration, any one of the justices of the peace acting in and for the district, place, or division wherein such dispute shall arise, shall have the same power to appoint arbitrators as are reserved to the several parties named in Rule 8; and the arbitrator or arbitrators so appointed shall proceed and be paid in like manner as before directed, and their finding shall be conclusive.

The Annual Statement of the Friend-in-Need Life Assurance and Sick Fund Friendly Society is as follows:—

This Society so far differs from the Royal Liver that, in case of a dispute between a member, or person claiming on account of a member, and the officers of the Friend-in-Need Society, the only mode of proceeding is by arbitration, the arbitrators meeting in London, while the claimants are, many of them, residing at great distances from that place.

Report.

Several persons have called at the Friendly Societies Office to make inquiry concerning the Friend-in-Need Life Assurance and Sick Fund Friendly Society held at 471, Oxford-street, London. In some cases the reason of inquiry being made was because the policies issued to the parties by the Friend-in-Need Society bore the signatures of Messrs. Oxford & Knowlden, the managers of the "Perseverance" Friendly Society, late of Mount-street, Westminster Bridge-road, who have recently appeared at the Southwark Police Court. In others the inquiry had reference to claims supposed by the parties to be well-founded, and also to the state of the funds. To answer this last question is attended with some difficulties. The Annual Report of the Society gives an account of "Disposition of Cash" in the following terms:—

DISPOSITION OF CASH.

Balances and arrears in hands of agents and members	7,188	17	6
Invested in the London and County Bank	2,300	–	–
Advanced in loans	4,106	13	–
In hands of Finance Committee	43	19	7
£.	13,639	10	1

And also the following statement of "Available Cash," by which it appears that the cash that is available exceeds the cash included under the term of "Disposition of Cash" by 2,220*l.* 18*s.* 9½*d.*; although how this can be the case it is difficult to discover.

AVAILABLE CASH.

Cash at the London and County Bank and in hands of Finance Committee	2,343	19	7
Balances in hands of agents	7,188	17	6
Invested in loans and securities	5,067	11	9½
Value of stock, fittings of offices, &c.	1,260	–	–
TOTAL Balance in favour of Society £.	15,860	8	10½

The real cash of the Society appears in both statements to be 2,343*l.* 19*s.* 7*d.*, of which sum 2,300*l.* was in the hands of the London and County Bank, and 43*l.* 19*s.* 7*d.* in the hands of the Finance Committee; but there are no particulars of how the sum of 4,106*l.* 13*s.* (in one statement), and 5,067*l.* 11*s.* 9½*d.* (in the other statement), is invested on loans; nor is it stated what are the securities on which the money is advanced. These points should should certainly be made clear before the members should be satisfied with the state of the Society, and, at the same time, an explanation should be given as to whether such a large sum as 7,188*l.* 17*s.* 6*d.* is necessary to be left in the hands of agents, and also whether the whole of this amount is recoverable; because until these points are ascertained there is no certainty that the capital of the Society is 13,639*l.* 10*s.* 1*d.*, or 15,860*l.* 8*s.* 10½*d.*, or some other amount. The question as to what is the actual amount of the funds is always one of great importance in every Society, but especially in such a one as the "Friend-in-Need," which has issued 200,710 policies up to 25th March 1863, of which number 48,168 were issued during the year. From the following correspondence it is evident that the Secretary of the Society considers that the funds amount to 15,860*l.* 8*s.* 10½*d.*; but it is to be hoped that a more intelligible statement will be given in the next Annual Report, so that there may be no doubt as to the amount of the funds of the "Friend-in-Need Society."

Report.

Friendly Societies Office,
28, Abingdon-street, Westminster, S.W.,
Sir, 10 August 1863.

In a report of a speech delivered by you at Glasgow, on behalf of the Friend-in-Need Society, I find it stated by you, that in case of a deficiency of funds arising to the Society in Scotland, there is a balance in England of 15,860*l.* 8*s.* 10*d.* to fall back upon. Will you have the goodness to inform me where this fund is invested?

Yours faithfully,
John Tidd Pratt.

471, Oxford-street, London, W.C.,
Sir, 11 August 1863.

In reply to yours of yesterday's date, I beg to state that when I spoke at Glasgow of the sum of 15,860*l.* 8*s.* 10*d.* as the balance in favour of the Society in England, I did not say that it was invested anywhere; I was then referring to the sum set down in our last Balance-sheet as the "Total Balance in favour of the Society." A copy of that Balance-sheet was sent to your office at the time it was published; but I enclose you another, so that you may at once refer to the same.

I am, Sir,
Yours respectfully,
G. W. Wheeler,
To Tidd Pratt, Esq. Secretary.

The Registrar has, in the course of the last year, received a considerable number of letters addressed to him in his official capacity, capacity, with reference to the misapplication of the funds of Friendly Societies, of which he has selected the following:— Report.

Sir,

In looking over the newspaper the other day, I saw an abstract of your last report on Friendly Societies. My attention was taken by a few words contained therein, with respect that further legislation was necessary in order that the working man might secure the full benefits of life assurance. I, as a working man, and a member of the Odd Fellows' Society, quite concur with you. I will give you my reason for doing so; for nearly all societies hold their meetings at public-houses, and it is a general rule, almost without an exception, to pay the landlord a deal more money for rent than they have any necessity for to do, in order that it may be returned again to them in liquor. If I say that 5 per cent. of the gross income is paid from the contributions of the members to the landlord for rent, it will be rather under than over the amount I have stated. There are a few members in some societies that have grappled with this monster evil, but the fact is, they are greatly in the minority; and until it is made penal by Act of Parliament for so misappropriating the funds, the evil will continue. For as the secretaries enter it in their returns as rent, and the liquor never being mentioned, I cannot see any legal way of stopping it unless an Act be passed to prevent members of Friendly Societies from trucking with the landlord a portion of their contributions for liquor. And, Sir, if your influence could bring about such a happy result, it would be a lasting benefit to Friendly Societies.

Sir,

I beg you will excuse me in thus addressing you, but I think that an error iss still persisted in in the society to which I belong, namely the True Briton Benefit Society, in connexion with the beer, the bane of all the land. In Rule 20 we have a provision of 2*d.* monthley for the purpose of assisting in defraying the expensses of management, when the fact of the case is this, the expensses off management is paid by the generall fund, and the said 2*d.* taken for beer on each and every club night, to the great detriment of the members and the good off the society, ass you may well suppose by the following statement, which is the real state of affairs, that each member on our ordinary club nights receive from 2 to 4 pints per share for this said 2*d.* monthly, and order or good behaviour is quite an exception. I wish to know if such is in keeping with said rule, or whether in accordance with law it cannot be put a stop to, for there are many of our members that cannot come to our meetings all the year round, but have to pay for their share of beer for other men to drink in their absence, and they themselves have none.

Allso a question have arrisen conserning the payment of the committee when called to transact bussiness of the society. I wish to know whether Rule 11th, page 5th, is not in force now ass it wass when you ratified the code of rules for our society; and are the trusteess trusteess who may attend our bussiness meetings an other members entitled to the allowance in the instruction of the same rule or any other in our whole code. I may inform you that our officers are persuing a course that will prove suicidall to the society if allowed to continue in such a way ass the pressent. Instruction from you will be thankfully received ass earley ass convenient.

Report.

Sir,

I READ your alterations of our intended new rules to the members of our court on Saterday night last, and they wished me to ask you if it would be legal to pay a band on the anniversary day from the managment fund, as we think it a nescecary expence of manageing an anniversary, and their are several rejestered societys in our neighbourhood that doe pay their bands in that way. The mejority of our members are willing to pay an additional penny per month, if you say it will be legal for us to pay our band as above stated. Your speedy answer will oblige.

Sir,

I FEEL it my duty as a member, an president this year, of the Loyal Philantrophic Lodge, held in the Castle Inn, Tredegar, to submit to your notice, that for some time past, we have paid for the room (and had no beer), several of the members persist and say they will have beer, and on Monday 27 instant they intend finally to setle. I therefore solicit your advice wether or not they can legaly pay for such beer from the contribution funds; I am opposed to it in every sense. I shall feel grateful for your instructions how to act in the matter.

Sir,

Concerning the beer that I wrote to you, I protested against the supply of the same this night, Oct. 13th, 1862, and wass told that they would have it in spite of me; when I then introduced your letter and gave them to understand that the whole thing wass illegall, and wass then scorned at with your letter and yourself. He then made a propossition that the landlord should make them a present of 10 s. worth of beer and they would give him 10 s. at the close of bussiness that night, at which time I again read your letter, there being a few more members pressent; when ——— told me that I should not rule them. I replied that I did not want to rule them, but I should write again to Tidd Pratt, when the retort wass that he carred no more for Tidd Pratt than for me, and that neither Tidd Pratt or me should rule this club. I told him that he should hear of that again, for by my writing to you I should get an answer ass before, when the said ——— said he did not care; they would have the beer come what may. I have allso to inform you that our pot politicians have determined on expunging the 6th Rule from the Article to suit their own purposes, and to the disadvantage of myself and others that are quite willing and and competent to fill the office of first and second stewards, when called upon for such by the order of the rule; but they are going to select two stewards to their own desire and of their own class, and compel me and others to pay for their service at the rate of 6 d. per member half-yearly, and the same two men will be chosen every alternate half-year, so that other members will be debard from office, and allso carry out a vile determination that have been concocted in some pot-house or other, by ———— and some few others, for the sole purpose of keeping me from office for ever, which I heard ———— counselling others to do, he not knowing that I was present at the time; and when I cautioned him about such proceeding, there an then, he did not deny it. I find now that they have commenced with alteration of said rule, therefore I hope in justice to myself and others, that you will be guided by your good sence, and not comply with their verry unfair request, which will shortly, if not allready, be made to you by some of those aforesaid officers in the name of the society. By your atention to this you will greatly oblidge a member waiting your reply.

Sir,

I am directed by the committee of management of the —— society for your advice, if you will be kind enough to oblidge us; we have a member who has summons us to the County Court at Maidstone, on Monday, Nov. 3d, 1862, for 1 s. 6 d.; 6 d. towards next dinner day, which we collect every quarter from all members, agreed to at a general meeting for that purpose, and 1 s. fine for not attending Divine Service on dinner-day. At a committee meeting on February 14, 1860, I was ordered to summons a general meeting on March 1, 1860, to settled about our feast day. I summons all members, and was voted to have a dinner, 49 members in favour, and 17 against it, and to pay 6 d. per quarter over the 4 s. per quarter, and the remainder on our anniversary; to have a band and ringing, and to pay 1 s. for not attending Divine Service. We keep a separate account of that money; it allways was from the first establishment of the society; there was 23 members fined for not being at church, and not a member murmured in paying it, but this said member, who pays and then summons us. We understood a man by the name of ———— an ————, has written to you on the subject, who has done everything he can to upset our society, and no member of ours. The 23d Rule says every member shall pay the sum required per quarter, towards defraying the necessary expence of management, and a separate account to be kept, &c. The 28th Rule, where there is no rule bearing on it, the committe have full power to decide; the 30th Rule, no new rule shall be made, amended, altered or rescined unless with the consent of a majority of the members present; a general meeting specially called for that purpose. And answer will greatly oblige, and am happy to say since we have been enrolled we are in a florishing state.

Report.

Sir,

I BEG to thank you for your reply to my inquiries respecting my proposed sick club.

My purpose in starting it is to break up a public-house club in the parish whose incidental expenses, forfeits, &c. press heavily upon the members that have families. Most of them are of this class; as the younger men belong to a benefit society which numbers, in my parish, and immediate neighbourhood, 70 members.

My club, if I succeed in establishing it, will consist of the older and middle-aged of my people, to whom a little money laid by in a savings bank would be useful. It would take the place of the capital of a benefit society on a small scale, only applicable to any emergency that may arise. This is surely better than distributing the surplus every year, which is one of the rules of the public-house club.

You are, of course, well aware of the pernicious character of public-house clubs; they are costly and mischievous; and are got up solely for the benefit of the publican. That in my parish numbers some 40 members, who pay a shilling a month, and 2½*d.* or 3*d.* for a pint of beer, whether they have it or not. This rule is injurious in two ways: it either induces a member to spend more, or, if he keeps away from the temptation, as some do, he loses some of his hard-earned wages, which would buy him his next day's bread. Then, there is the annual dinner, at a charge of 2*s.* 6*d.* a head, of which the publican makes a very pretty harvest; the residue of the money is divided, the club is dissolved, but only to be re-formed of the same members whom the publican has already got into his meshes.

This iniquitous system, which both robs and demoralizes the labourer, and every public-house in this neighbourhood has its club, I am anxious, if possible, to eradicate in my parish. I believe it may be done by offering a club with rules more attractive to the prudent and frugal. With this view I propose to set one on foot with the rules I submitted to you: monthly payments of 1*s.*, no forfeits or extras; 7*s.* for sick members weekly, for six weeks (the same payment as that of the public-house club); the remainder to be put into a savings bank. This last rule I shall, if possible, make stringent. The new Post-office savings banks will, I hope, make it more acceptable.

If you, with the authority of your name, can suggest any method whereby these vile public-house clubs may be extirpated, you will be conferring an incalculable benefit upon the agricultural districts.

Sir,

I WISH to inform you how business is transacted with the —— society; about 12 months back the stewards then in office gave 5*l.* to a brother member to buy a drum, five members giving their names for 1*l.* each; the society received 2*l.*, and refuses to pay any more; the majority of them choosed the Catholick priest as treasurer, in order that he might have the use of the money; he or his curate comes to the club-room every club night, and takes away the money paid in each club-night (the club-room now is a rented room); not being satisfied satisfied with the account he gave of the money, we proposed to go to the publick-house where the landlord would have charge of the money. The two stewards have the three keys belonging to the property, so they can give money to who they like, and keep it from who they like.

The stewards now gave 2*l.* 5*s.* to a member that went to America; I asked him who authorised him to give the money, the answer was, not you; breaking the 4th rule, and a great many members caused a disturbance to support the same, which is a great injury to the society, breaking rule 3.

The curate came to the club-room about a month back, and said, there should be no business done in the lodge-room but as he liked; I said, the club would be broke up; he said, he did not care it was broke up this night.

There is a one-sided majority; they can do as they like; they can insult any person that finds fault with them, and won't be fined; there is no chance of excluding them what ever they do.

I hope you will protect the lodge from being broken up, and let me know how I am to act with them, and whether I can recover my money by law. The priest have them wound up; he can mannage them as he please.

I would like to know if the members that gave their names to be security for the money so paid out of the funds can be made refund the money.

Please to write as soon as possible, for there is a good many members thinking to leave the club if you do not protect it.

Dear Sir,

I am a member of two friendly societies, the Odd Fellows and Foresters: in the one, every member is compelled to pay one penny per fortnight for ale, in lieu of rent, in the other, two-pence per fortnight. I object to be compelled to pay for drink. Will you be so kind as to inform me what remedy I have so as to relieve myself and other members from this drink tax.

Sir,

At three meetings held by the members of the —— society, it was agreed upon by the members then present, to alter our rules, which alteration I have now sent to you; part of them you will find written on paper, and the other part you will see marked over in the book, and if they should meet your approbation we should be verry glad. It has been a custom among the members, ever since the commencement of this society, which was in 1837, to spend in drink, every club-night, at the rate of three-pence from each member, which was taken out of the contributions, and which will amount, up to the present time, to 367*l.* 4*s*, and according to the 23d article, which we intend to abolish altogether, every member was compelled to pay 1*s.* for drink on the feast day, whether he com or not, besides 6*s.* a year spent in drink on committee nights; and for the first 17 years it exceeded 9*s.* a year, and 6*d.* paid extra for drink by every person becoming a member on club-nights, and 1*s.* extra by becoming a member on feast days.

Report.

The members are come to a determination to abolish the drinking altogether, and I myself, as secretary, and a member, shall stand firm against any more of the society's money being spent in drink for the benefit of those who are of no use to friendly societys.

Spent in drink from 9 Sept. 1837 to 15 Nov. 1862:

On club-nights	367	4	–
On feast days	176	15	–
On committe nights	10	17	–
Extra paid by members	13	4	–
	£. 568	–	–

All this for the benefit of the landlord.

Sir,

Enclosed I have sent a circular issued from the Norfolk Pioneer Lodge Friendly Society, belonging to the Nottingham Imperial Order of Odd Fellows, No. 462. The dinner is to take place as per circular; half the expenses to be taken from the funds, and to show in the return to you as management expenses. I feel it my duty to transmit this to you for your consideration, and cannot agree with so flagrant a violation of the laws of the society.

P.S.—The lodge meet on Monday the 9th instant.

Sir,

I feel it my duty to inform you the members of the Star of the Ocean Lodge Friendly Society, No. 470, belonging to Nottingham Order of Odd Fellows, registered No. 3362 a, held their anniversary on Monday 26th ult. with a dinner, half of the expense defrayed out of the funds; in the return to you it will show as management.

Sir,

I have this day been reading a letter in Reynolds' newspaper respecting friendly societies, signed by yourself. As I am secretary of two friendly societies, I am well aware of the evil of drinking at societies, though one of these societies does not allow any drink to come in the room; we pay the landlord 30 s. per year rent.

Sir, I have often thought it would be a good thing for friendly societies if they could be allowed to meet in school-rooms; there is in this village several societies, and a large school endowed by Government called a national school; and we should be glad to meet there and willing to pay remuneration for the benefit of the school; and if a proviso had been made before the grant was allowed, that all enrolled societies should have the privilege to meet in it, we should have done so, and yet not interfere with the hours of the school, as societies never meet before 7 o'clock in the evening.

If our committee could hear from you on the subject it would be esteemed a favour.

Report.

Sir,

Having read your excellent remarks in the "Standard" newspaper on the evil of intemperance in friendly societies, I have taken the liberty of asking a favour of you to be so kind to assist me in making a rule for the Young Union Society of Cordwainers, No. 589, held at the Cock and Bottle, Castle-green, in this city, for to prevent any of the members receiving sick pay if the affliction should arise from drunkenness; we had two cases last year, one was obliged to be kept in a lunatic asylum for eight weeks, and received sick pay, as there was no rule to prevent it; therefore to prevent the waste of the society's fund, they trustees wish for to present a rule to the members, their consideration, on the 24th of this present month, and try to persuade to adopt it. Sir, you will confer a great benefit to the sober and industrious member if you can form a rule to meet case, if they can get a majority in its favor.

Sir,

In Tenby, as in most other towns in England, it is intended that the 10th of March, being the wedding-day of his Royal Highness the Prince of Wales, shall be a day of general rejoicing.

A subscription has been raised in the town to defray the expenses of fireworks and a dinner to be given to the working classes. There being two benefit societies in the town, the Odd Fellows (registered No. 2207), and the Ivorites, they are invited to join with the volunteer corps in procession, and to take dinner. Being an Odd Fellow, the treasurer of that society called upon me on the morning of the 4th instant, and said that he thought it would be rather mean in us to go and take our dinners of the public subscription; and, as we had plenty of money, he thought it would look better if we gave a sum out of our funds, when we could say that we had paid for our dinners. I told him that I should oppose the taking of the money out of the funds for such a purpose; and, besides, I did not believe it was legal. That afternoon I received a summons to attend my lodge at half-past eight that evening, "for the purpose of deciding on business of the utmost importance."

I accordingly attended. One of the members proposed, that "5 l. should be given to the subscription fund; which proposition was entered in the minute book, at the dictation of the treasurer, as follows: "March 4th. At a special summoned lodge held this evening to consider what shall be done with respect to the rejoicings in town on the 10th instant, it was proposed by ——— that 5 l. be paid to the mayor from the management fund to help the public subscription for the poor and the rejoicings on that day."

"Seconded by ———."

I rose and put the following amendment:

"Proposed by ———, as an amendment, that considering the 5 l. proposed to be given is really and truly for the Odd Fellows' dinner, and believing that to be an illegal gift, it should not be given."

"Seconded by ———."

Report.

On the amendment being put to the meeting, only myself and the seconder were for it, consequently the grant was carried by a large majority.

In this town, and within my recollection, a benefit society named "The Union Society," was equally as prosperous as we now are, and within that recollection it had dwindled down, by bad management, so as not to have any funds to pay to the poor old men who were sick and needed it. It is now defunct.

To guard against a bad precedent, and to ward off a like fate, I now appeal to you as to the legality of this vote.

Our general laws, which our bye-laws endorse, say, that "the objects of the society are for insuring a sum of money to be paid on the death of a member, &c.;" and, as to the application of funds, "That all monies received on account of entrance fees, subscriptions, fines, donations, publication and sale of rules, lodge books and sale of other works calculated to be of interest to the order, and interest on capital, shall be applied in carrying out the objects of the society, and and in paying the expenses of management according to the rules thereof."

Looking at those rules faithfully and disinterestedly, I cannot think the voting of money from the lodge funds a legal vote. Resting upon your decision, for which I shall wait before proceeding further, I have enclosed a stamped envelope for a reply, which will greatly oblige.

My dear Sir,

I BEG to lay before you a few statements.

On the occasion of the nuptials of His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales, there is to be in this town, among other rejoicings, a dinner for the "poor" as well as for the "labouring classes" of this parish, the funds for which was very low, and considered insufficient.

We summoned a meeting of the members of our society and laid the case before them, on Wednesday last the 4th instant. A proposition was made and seconded, that the sum of five pounds should be given out of our Management Fund, of which we have a large surplus in hand, towards that object.

An amendment was proposed and seconded, that no such sum be allowed, which, on being put to the meeting, received the support of the proposer and seconder only. The original motion was then put, when all, the above named proposer and seconder of the amendment excepted, voted in its favour. The members, therefore, ordered the money to be handed over to the mayor, which was not done till Friday last.

The proposer of the amendment thereupon writes to you making sundry inquiries, the reply to which he circulates amongst the members, declaring that the money being paid for an illegal purpose must be refunded: all this is exceedingly unpleasant. We declare by the voice of the whole lodge it was given for a charitable purpose, and feel convinced that we are supported by our laws and all law;

we therefore have taken the liberty of thus addressing you on the subject, and should feel most obliged by an early answer to this. Report.

Sir,

I HUMBLY beg to submit the following questions to you, and would feel thankful for an early answer, I being a member of Court Canute 113, of Ancient Order of Forresters; am given to understand that a member of the same Court hath written to you respecting the Management Fund (as it is called) of that Court, which fund he says is illegally applied, and that he has your authority for such assertion, and also for what further proceedings he has threatened to take, consequently we wish to submit to your notice the following facts, which have been carried out since the said Court was established; you will find, Sir, by referring to our Rule 18 (of which I understand you have a copy) that our monthly contributions for each member are made up of the following items:

s.	d.
1	1½	go to the Society's Sick Fund.
–	4	to Funeral Fund.
–	2	for payment of the Surgeon's Fund.
–	1½	to the General Management Fund.
1	9	TOTAL.

Now, Sir, the majority of members of the said Court, and in open Court, vote 15 s. for liquor for each monthly meeting; 6 l. for a band at the anniversary: mark, these two last things have been done since the established of the Order, and it has worked well; and also now wishing, like the rest of the Friendly Societies of this town to show our royalty on the Prince of Wales' wedding day, we in open Court voted 10 l. towards defraying the expenses of a dinner for each member who attended, and walked in procession. The expenses for the liquor, the band, and for the dinner, are paid out of this Management Fund, and which, when framed, was specially intended by, and on the part of the great majority of members of this Court, should be for defraying all such incidental expenses; and this —— knew what was coming before the meeting, and yet said nothing until a day or two after when all was settled and the dinner ordered, therefore we wish to have your opinion on the act of spending 15 s. monthly for liquor, 6 l. annually for a band, and of 10 l. for a dinner, for the rare occurrence of a Prince of Wales' wedding day; whether we are acting legally or illegally with the said Management Fund. I beg pardon for trespassing upon your time.

Sir,

As the only recognized legal gentleman connected with the Friendly Societies in England, and to whom all matters in dispute ought, in my opinion, to be referred, I beg to submit the following important questions for your consideration:

The branch of Odd Fellows, Manchester Unity, as well as other districts and lodges, keep two separate and distinct accounts, viz. "The Sick and Funeral Fund," and "The Incidental or Management Fund." It is with respect to the latter fund I wish to draw your attention. It is contended (and in direct opposition to your expressed opinion) by the gentlemen who are at the head of the society, viz. the "Grand Master and Board of Directors" (and sent forth by them to the various branches), that the surplus moneys of the Management Fund are no part of the funds of the society (which is somewhat strange logic). Now, Sir, there is a note appended to the annual returns issued by you, which says, "that any money of the Society expended in a feast, drink, banners, music or procession is illegal;" but the Grand Master and Board of Directors are of a contrary opinion, and even intimate to the different branches that they are not to take any notice of such your instructions; thus a vast number of the members are at a loss who to obey, or what course to adopt, particularly in the —— district. As it is in contemplation to hold the annual moveable committee of the Society in the town of ——, which will cause a considerable outlay, a levy has been made on the whole of the members of the district to defray the expenses likely to be incurred, and which levy several of the lodges are not in a position to pay, inasmuch as they are even now indebted to their Management Fund. It is evident that your instructions (before alluded to) are treated with contempt. The wellwishers of the institution are very anxious that this subject should be properly understood. Will you, therefore, please inform me what course ought to be adopted in resisting the levy for such a purpose, as it will prove very injurious to some of the branches in this locality; and please say whether or not it is in violation of the 29th section of the 18 & 19 Vic., c. 63.

Sir,

I WAS glad to see a paragraph in a recent paper that it was probable that you would secure the introduction of a Bill this Session, to discourage or prevent the holding of clubs at beershops and public-houses.

May I beg the favour of a line, saying when such a measure is likely to be submitted. There is no doubt that many of these clubs are little more than snares to the working classes; and irrespective of the financial embarrassments of their own funds, there being in such dangerous places leads to the ruin of hundreds of the best operatives in the country.

The most capable get into offices, and have to attend most frequently, and imperceptibly and apparently at little personal cost, they are reduced to drunkards.

Sir,

I AM sorry to have to trouble you, but circumstances compel me to do so. The lodges in this district, or rather the lodge officers, have hastily and foolishly purchased a drum and fife band, as they call it, which has been paid for out of the contribution for sick; it cost about 13 l. Uniform, clothing and learning has been intended to be taken out of the same fund, but I think the note on your return sheet will stop that, and now they cannot represent this expenditure on your sheet they are planning to represent it as money lent. Now, sir, such is not the fact, for we have no security whatever for the money, nor any part of it; there is no such item on your sheet as money lent, neither is our society a loan society; rule provides for what is to be done with our surplus fund if we had one: and further, they as officers tell us we must make it up in shape of extra contribution. If the money was lent, why should we be called upon to make it up (that is proof at once)? If officers misapply our money and lavish it away for anything they think proper, and enforce members to make it up, we, as a body of members, shall never be safe, nor know what we have to pay; and further, the Speedwell Lodge officers tell us that it is the trustees that are answerable for the money, so that it is to be anyone but the right ones that has misapplied it.

If you will please give me your opinion on these points, as I have stated the whole of the affair as it stands:—

1st. Are the officers justified in this expenditure, and can they compel our members to make it up; or are the officers responsible for the refunding of it, according to the 57th rule, Speedwell Lodge?

2d. And if proceedings have to be taken for the recovery of this money, against whom will the proceedings be taken, and what course would you suggest?

P. S.—I have applied to my lodge for a balance sheet, according to rule 36, and sent 2 d.; but a balance sheet is denied, and the 2 d. returned. I intended to send it to you, as you might look at it with this. Some of the lodge trustees are stating to me that they will not sign the return sheet if this expenditure is on it, as they have not been consulted before it was expended. Please permit me one remark; that is, it remains with you to insist of the lodge secretaries to fill their sheets up and return them to you in proper time; and when sent, if this expenditure is represented as money lent, to object to pass it, and insist of it being properly filled up according to rule. I hope you will excuse these last two remarks; but if they get this passed, next year, most likely, they will be purchasing clothing, and learning paid for out of our sick fund, which will be serious.

Sir,

PRAY pardon me trespassing upon your valuable time by asking you the following question, in reference to a friendly society (enrolled) to which I belong: viz., is it legal for the members of such society to vote away any sum of money for any other purpose than that which the rules of the society specify? In case they do, cannot the trustees, by the protest of any member of the society, be compelled to refund the same?

The reason I ask your advice is, because I do not like to see the funds, to which I have for many years subscribed, misappropriated. We have had a member of the society gone out as an emigrant to one of Her Majesty's colonies, and previous to him going away they, the members, by a majority (not unanimous), voted him a sum of money from the society's funds. I do not write this in any vindictive spirit, but having read so much of your good advice in the lectures you have delivered in different parts of the country, about societies failing through inroads being made upon the rules, contrary to the statutes in those cases made and provided.

Sir,

I FEEL it my duty to lay before you some of the doings of our friendly society. These last two Easters, 6 l. have been taken out of our funds for feasting and drink; myself and few more have opposed it with all the effort we had, but to no purpose; one or two of the officers, with one trustee, have gone with the majority, and the laws have been set at nought. This day week feast they would have 25 s. out for drink; the chairman opposed it with all his might; they demanded his key of the box, and threatened to turn him out of the room; Charles Buswell, a trustee, taken possession of the key, and with two more taken the money out of the box, and before the day was over they got drunk, and fighting took place, and some of the landlord's furniture was broken, and all was confusion and uproar. Charles Buswell was told he was liable to refund the money. If these lawless proceedings are not put a stop to we do not know what is to be done, and there are other societies in the same situation. We wait your decision on these proceedings.

Questions:—1st. Have this society the power to pass a resolution compelling every member to pay 2 d. each every meeting night, to be spent in liquor; or have they the power to pass a resolution to spend every club night, in liquor, 7 s. 6 d. out of the funds?

2d. Are they acting legal in taking, every club night, 1 s. 4 d. per member, when according to the rules the contributions are as follows:—Threepence per month per member to the management fund, 11 d. per month per member for sick and funeral fund, &c.; total, 1 s. 2 d. (see Rules 22 and 31).

3d. Have they the power on their annual meetings on Whit-Monday to compel every member to attend, or pay for his dinner 2 s. 6 d. (see Rule 59), as up to the present time every member has been compelled to attend or pay his share of the expenses?

4th. What are the funds of this society?

Sir,

As a member of the New Union Society, held at the Wheatsheafe Inn, Matlock, which society was enrolled and the rules registered tered by you on the 20th day of March 1860, would you have the kindness to give me your opinion on the above questions? In respect of the latter part of the first question, 7 s. 6 d. is spent in liquor every club night, which I consider is a great injustice to the members that seldom visit the club, to pay for a thing they never have; it is evident that the officers of the club do not understand the rules. In fact, the host and his son have the principal say in the club. I shall feel greatly obliged to you if you will answer the questions as soon as you conveniently can, as it is of great consequence to the members of the club.

Sir,

I BEG most respectfully to ask your opinion with regard to the rules of the society, and whether the members are compelled to dine on the feast-day or not. I enclose two copies of rules; the first copy is dated in 1831, and the 5th rule states that all those who intend to dine must pay 2*s.* 6 d. for dinner and expenses; of these rules there is a written copy in the club box. The second copy of rules is dated in 1841, and of these there is no written copy in the club-box; in fact, the clerk (who, I may add, has been the clerk ever since the club was established) admits that you have not certified these rules, although they purport to have been certified by you. Now the two questions I wish to ask are, which of these rules is the club to be governed by, and whether each member is compelled to pay for dinner and ale on the feast-day? I am truly sorry to give you so much trouble, but it is at the request of a large body of the members, who are endeavouring to get the club away from the publichouse, and to have it conducted in a proper manner, that I have done so.

Sir,

MAY I take the liberty, as a stranger to you, of asking your counsel in a matter which interests me at present? I am endeavouring to carry certain reforms in our village club; they are chiefly three, viz., 1. To remove the meetings of the society from the public-house to the parish schoolroom. 2. To throw into the society's funds the money which the members are at present compelled by their articles to spend in liquor. 3. To abolish the walking in procession at the yearly festival.

Now it appears from the Articles of the Blagdon Friendly Society, that the major part of the committee have power to carry these or any other alterations, subject to your approval, provided that they are in accordance with 10 Geo. 4, c. 56, s. 9.

I am, therefore, anxious to ascertain, before putting the matter to the vote, whether the proposed alterations can be legally made; could you kindly satisfy me on this point or put me in the way of obtaining information?

I shall be most thankful for any suggestion as to the way of carrying out these or other like reforms. The meetings, specially the yearly festivals of our club, as at present conducted, are a fertile source of moral evil in this place. But I believe that by means of a few simple alterations such as the above, much of this evil might be prevented, and the exhausted funds of the club considerably recruited.

Report.

—— —— Friendly Society.

We the undersigned members of the above society, protest against the inclosed expenditure for ale and dinner, according to Act of Parliament now in force. We feel grieved at the conduct of many of the old members, they won't have the present rules revised; we therefore call your attention and request the secretary and committee to make the rules according to the Act 18 & 19 Vic. c. 63. It was moved that the room be paid for, and that the dinner be laid off; the twopence for drink be put into box. They would not allow these to be carried.

Sir,

It is the wish of the members of our lodge that we pay twopence per month extra to the incidentials fund, and take 3*s*. each out of the same for our annaversary; I wish to ask wether it is legal, for I am of opinion that it is all together illegal to compel us to such unfair means. I am quite against inpoverishing our incel. or management funds for such a purpos, for we can as well pay for our dinner as pay twopence per month all the year round, for our funds are low and we shall have several levies besides these pence to meet our incedlls. I think we ought not to wast our money in that way. I am one that is quite against that compulsion, for our members that are out of distance will not like to pay for this dinner and cannot come. I do not like them to be compelled to pay for nothing, for every working man has plenty to pay his way without paying for nothing.

Sir,

I enclose you a statement of the friendly society at Rosehill, Gilstand; they will not obey your advice given to them six years ago, they threw your letter away and won't act in conformity to the Act. We proposed to pay a rent for the house, to put the twopence spent for ale into the box, and any one wanting dinner to pay for it out of their own pocket; to allow men that has to meet to do the business, what is allowed in drink the same amount to be allowed them in cash. We commenced to take the names of all those that were grieved at the conduct of the secretary, and just a few of the old hands they won't be broken of their old custom. We would feel obliged if you would be kind enough to inform us what steps to take in order to get the business done according to the Act. The ———— funds have increased since the charge was made there.

Hoping you will assist us to get it done, and be kind enough to send the stewards and secretary a threatening letter, at the same time be kind enough to give me an answer to this that I may acquaint those who is favourable for the change.

Report.

Sir,

I am a member of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows of the Manchester Unity, and wish to be subject to the laws and regulations that you set before us, but it greivs me to tell you we are two much on the expenditure contrary to your advice, which I think it my duty to inform you. We pay 1*s.* 4*d.* per month, 1*s.* goes to the box and 4*d.* to the incidental, out of which each member recives a tickett value 3*d.* to be spent in liquer, evry lodge night. The sick member recievs 6*s.* per week the first 12 month, then he comes to half pay. We count upwards of 200 members, and we spend in liquer upwards of 30*s.* evry lodge night. We pay a docter about 20*l.* per year; we audit our books twice a year, and spend 6*s.* each time in liquer, besides 5*s.* the day after our feast day; this all comes out of the box, besides a great deal of money two or three times a year in district buiseness. We hold our annuversary on the 22d of June evry year; 1*s.* goes out of the box for liquer to each member; the band of music, 3*l.*; church ringers, 6*s.*; singers, 6*s.*; spent at public-houses whilst the prosescion walks round the town, 12*s.*; carrying banner, 2*s.*; this is all spent out of the box on the feast day, besides other expence two numerous to mention. I think this is more then ought to be spent at this time and trade so bad. Many of our members has not bread enough to eat; our town is chiefly supported by hand-loom weaving, and there is little or nothing to be done; a many is out of employ; when at work a man and his wife cannot average little more then 5*s.* per week, with both working; some of their children goes to the cotton mills upon half time; they have to work three miles there and three back evry night and morning, and without trade takes a turn they are expected to stop every week; there is little room for spending or feasting whilst members cannot rais their contribution. I love oddfellowship if thay were pure oddfellows, but cannot do with a majority of spendthrifts, that cares not for the box or the sick member. They want to compel all members to pay for dinner weather they are able or not, or fine them for none attendance (but your laws does not say so). I refused to join them last year and shall this, on account of their expenditure.

Sir, I have given you some of our proceedings, and should esteem it evry perticular faviour if you would addopt some plann for the poor mans protection. Please to write to our lodge.

Sir, be so kind as to answer this, if possible, before our feast day, which is on the 22d of this month.

Sir,

I am a collector of a friendly society, started about six months ago, and enrolled by you, and I am disatisfied with the way in which it is carried on, as there is about 10*l.* per week coming in, and the management expenses swallow up every peny, and I know there is not a farthing laid by for risks, which are now due.

There is a rule which says that the management expenses shall not exceed 25 per cent. of the funds, instead of that the management expenses are 95 per cent.

Will

Report.

Will you inform me whether they, the committee of management, can be proceeded against for illegally disposing of their funds, as I want to bring it before a members meeting on Tuesday night.

Sir,

I AM sorry to trouble you, but I thought it my duty as Secretary of the Sick and Burial Society, held at ———, to explain to you the yearly statement that I sent to you respecting the above society; the 18*l.* 6*s.* 11½*d.*, put down as management expenses has been spent in feast, drink, music, &c., which is illegal; their is a great majority of the members in favour of it being spent in this way; we have also three trustees and two of them is in favour of it being spent in this way; the majority of the members say that they have a right to apply their money to what purpose they think well; there is also six members who gave 14 days' notice according to Rule II., not to come to dinner on Whit-Monday, and the master and wardens refused to take their monthly contributions unless they pay for dinner too; and the majority of the members say that unless they pay for their dinner which they never had, that the same six members shall be excluded from the society; their is one member who has gone so far as to say that he will spend every penny the club is worth, and break up the society, before he will give in and adhere to the rules; this same member has also withdrawn from the treasurer the sum of 8*l.* 10*s.* the beginning of last month, and spent the greater part of it in Drink, which the majority of the members say that he has done quiet right. Now Sir, can anything be done to put a stop to such extravagant proceedings? or what are those six members to do who gave notice not to come to dinner? can the majority of the members make them pay contrary to Rule II.? I have been Secretary to the society for 14 years, and last club night the members seized the books and locked them up, because I will adhere to the rules and will not agree with the majority of the members and break the rules. So you see, Sir, to what a state the majority of the members have got too: whould you be so good, Sir, as to send me a reply to the few questions, and you will much oblige.

Sir,

I AM obliged for your last letter, and thought it my duty on the receipt of your letter to give the lodge notice of what your opinion was on the legality of their taking the expenses of the procession, &c. out of the management fund, and cautioned them on their doing so. Some of the members present on the lodge night, when the notice was read, at once said that you had no power in the matter, and your opinion went for nothing, and pledged themselves to defend any prosecution that might be brought against any of its officers; and also authorized the secretary to write Mr. Ratcliffe the secretary of the Unity to ask him if they (the Unity) would also back them out; and in reply to that letter the secretary received the enclosed reply, a copy of which I demanded from him.

The lodge in pursuance of this advice now intend to take the sum for for such procession, &c., out of the management fund, and if there is not sufficient in that fund to pay such sum, they intend to levy on the whole of the members to make up such deficiency. This is in accordance with the advice of Mr. Ratcliffe, and in direct opposition to your own, and as, I think, the lodge too, for this reason: when first a desire was expressed to have the lodge registered, in consequence of one of its officers having robbed them to a considerable extent, something like 300*l.* in five years, and who afterwards committed suicide, a committee was appointed to draw up the rules, of which I was one, and such committee considered, and all agreed at the time, that the laws then agreed upon would prevent any money being taken out of either the Sick and Funeral or Managements Funds, they considering at the time that it was not at all right that it should be taken out. A summoned lodge was then called to agree and sanction the rules as drawn by the committee, which they did, and all thought the same as they did. The rules were then sent to you for your approval, and the construction you put upon them is the same as what the committee and summoned lodge did, after the rules are passed. Another summoned lodge is called to decide whether there should be an anniversary and dinner, or dinner only, and at such meeting the Secretary stated no money could be taken out of the funds for such a purpose; and he also urged upon the members that if any part of the funds were appropriated to such a purpose they could be proceeded against in the manner prescribed by Act of Parliament, and all then present were of opinion that the funds could not be appropriated for such a purpose; but now one man comes forward and says that they can do so, which is what the law never intended, and which the members, until they received his letter, thought would be breaking the laws, and because a many of the members have expressed their opinion, backed by your own, Mr. Ratcliffe as thought proper to hint that if we do prefer a charge against the lodge officers, and in direct opposition to his opinion, that we shall be expelled the order, and redicules your opinion; in fact, because we, as members, object to the misapplication of the funds, and for keeping intact the laws, he advises the lodge to proceed in such a manner as to bring us under the control of the Board of Directors, who he knows will agree with his decision which he gave. He evidently does not like the idea of the matter coming before the magistrates, but if it did, and we won he threatens, or hints that we should be expelled the order. This certainly seems to be quite contrary to law on the part of Mr. Ratcliffe, and also for the lodge to act upon his decision, and in opposition to yours, and seems to me to be entirely defeating the Act 18 & 19 Vict.; and if they are to break the laws in this manner, it would be a mere farce having a society registered, for when they are so, a man who thinks that his voice alone is law, says "They are not law," surely this was never intended by the Act. The Act was established, as I understand it, so as to avoid fraud, and to have societies governed by proper and legal laws, and to see that such laws were properly carried out, but such laws as to the appropriating of funds are very often infringed upon, and will be more so now, if we allow Mr. Ratcliffe's opinion to overrule your own on this point, as I have no doubt that kindred societies in this town and neighbourhood will apply their funds to these improper uses, who hitherto hitherto have not done so, considering that they had not the power. Our lodge numbers 300 members, and a goodly number of these reside above three miles from the lodge, and in different parts of England; they never attend the lodge, being prevented from so doing from distance and other causes, but send their money, and of course expect that it will be applied to proper uses, but it will not be so if Mr. Ratcliffe's opinion is carried out, and there is little doubt that there will not be sufficient in hand to meet the expenses; and they who have taken no part in the procession will be called upon by a levy to pay for those who have, which in your and our opinion is wrong, and was never intended.

Report.

I and the other objectors to Mr. Ratcliffe's power and decision wish you to give us your advice upon the whole case, and advise us in what way we are to proceed (I observe the mode of proceeding you mentioned in your last) who are the parties against whom the information must be laid, who would have to bear the expenses of the prosecution. It appears theirs would be defrayed by the lodge, but have they the power of taking that out of the lodge funds, and should we be aided by any professional assistance or advice from you if we proceed, for it is a case were advice is required, for we have the Unity against our opinion and your own. Will the Unity, a lodge, have power to expel us if we proceed (see law 139 of the general laws of the order); and also to make any comments and suggestions upon the case you may think proper in aiding and assisting us. I shall be exceedingly obliged by an early reply.

Sir and Brother, Manchester.

If these members proceed against the lodge or any of its officers, let a charge be preferred against them for bringing the order into contempt, and expel them the society; any appeal they may make must be to your district meeting, and from them to the directors, and whatever opinion Mr. Pratt or any other person may hold, the directors must decide in cases of appeal. I think you should advise them the course I advise should be taken; you have no reason to fear imprisonment; if the magistrates make any order they will order the money to be paid back, and those members will have to pay their share.

Sir,

I am obliged for the copy, case and opinion received yesterday.

I observe that the Attorney General agrees with your opinion as to the appropriation of the funds to improper uses, and also on other points which you advised me upon.

The case and opinion appeared in several of our local papers, and was read by many, and I can assure you that it came like a thunderbolt upon them who had ridiculed your opinion and threatened to expel us for presuming to dictate to Mr. Ratcliffe, the secretary of the

Unity,

Unity, as to what was right and wrong; but your opinion and the Attorney General's proved which was so, and the members feel the sword more keenly because they had a written notice informing them of your opinion, and the consequences of their appropriating the funds for the purposes they did, and places beyond a doubt their "wilfulness." I last night attended at the lodge, and read the case and opinion over to the members, and it met with the sneers of many. I understood from the secretary that he had received a communication from the secretary of the order, in which he stated that if you commenced proceedings he was to communicate with him at once. Some private matter was contained in it which the secretary refused to make known, but it is presumed it related to the expulsion of I and others, for I believe they intend to try to exclude us although we are right in what we have done. Report.

May I ask if it is your intention to proceed against the officers of our lodge for their wilfulness. You have the full particulars of the case contained in my former letters; and I think you will agree with me in saying that it is a very clear one, for the wilfulness is beyond a doubt: and if you do proceed I shall be most happy to afford you any assistance I can.

Thanking you much, on behalf of myself and others who have troubled you so much in this matter; but we have no doubt it will be the greatest boon that could have befallen all friendly societies; and if you intend to make an example of a friendly society I think that a more complete case could not be made out than the one against our order, for the reasons stated in my former letters.

Sir,

Being one of the members belonging to the —— lodge held at —— will you allow me to lay the following facts before you?

There was a committee appointed, and it was agreed that there should be a feast held on Whit Tuesday, and that 1 s. for each member should go out of the funds towards defraying the expense of such feast, although the articles expressly states that nothing whatever shall be suplied out of the funds towards providing any feast.

Myself and several other members objected to these proceedings, and gave ten days' notice previous to the feast that we should not attend, and discharged them from spending any money out of the funds on our account. Notwithstanding this they have taken the shilling for each member of us that did not attend the feast the same as them that did attend.

The secretary also made a return, a short time ago, to the Commissioners, that nothing whatever was spent from the funds, and yet there are the following items for the present year paid out of the funds:—

	£.	s.	d.
41 members at 1 s. each, for liquor - -	2	1	–
3 committee meetings, 1 s. 9 d. each - -	–	5	3
Secretary's salary - - - - -	–	10	–
	£. 2	16	3

Will

Report.

Will you pleas to inform me weather the committee have power to spend the money belonging to the funds as above stated when our twelvth article expressly forbids it?

Will you oblige me by informing me how to proceed in the matter? Excuse me for the liberty I have taken in troubling you.

Sir,

In the month of March last I solicited your opinion respecting the legality of appropriating a part of the funds of the —— lodge of Odd Fellows, M. U., of this town, for the purpose of purchasing decorations and paying for dinners for member of the lodge at a fête on the 10th of that month, and was advised by you that it would be illegal to do so. As a trustee of the lodge I protested against the money being so expended, and quoted your opinion, but nevertheless the money was taken from the funds for the purposes above named. Since then I have brought the question before the members, and have applied in the proper way for a special summoned lodge, in accordance with our General Law 191, which was refused me. I therefore waited until the ordinary summoned lodge night last week, when I introduced the enclosed proposition, of which I had given notice a fortnight before. I could barely obtain a hearing, and at the conclusion the presiding officer refused to put either my resolution or a motion that was made for an adjournment of the question to the meeting.

A sum of about 10*l. was taken from our funds on the occasion named*, and I and others fear that unless some check is put upon the officers this will be used as a precedent for further encroachments. A portion of the members of the lodge are convinced of the illegality of these proceedings, and would be very glad to know if something cannot be done in vindication of the law.

Sir,

I beg to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 13th instant, and to assure you that by taking up the case of the —— lodge you would materially serve the best interests of the friendly societies in this neighbourhood, for I am sorry to say that the Friendly Societies Act of Parliament is treated as a dead letter. I have been told to appeal to the district, but the district officers sanctioned the proceedings, and themselves expended a considerable sum of money from the district funds upon the occasion I have alluded to. So, you see, sir, it would be useless appealing there, and I therefore prefer appealing to you.

On looking at the lodge balance sheet last night I found the following entries charged to the lodge funds:—

Regalia - - - - - - -	1	6	–
Rosettes - - - - - - -	2	1	3
Collars - - - - - - -	–	16	–
Dinners - - - - - - -	2	17	–

And there were the committee expenses and the printing connected with getting up the procession, but these I could not get as they were mixed mixed up with other things. But if you decide upon taking proceedings for the recovery of the money, and will let me know the evidence you require, I will endeavour to obtain what you wish. Report.

Please make what use you like with my name in connexion with these proceedings, and if the names of other officers or members of the lodge are required they will be gladly forthcoming.

Sir,

I AM sorry that I should have to again call your attention respecting the dispute between me and the steward of the club, called the ———. They have turned me out at last, because I would not pay for the dinner that I never had, particulars of which I sent you two or three weeks since, when you kindly replied, and informed me that you were of opinion, under the circumstances I named, that I was not liable to pay for the dinner. Our club night being last Monday, July 6th, only a few of the members were there; they determined to expel me, which they did. Is this right? Not one half of the members, up to this time, know that I am expelled. I have been a member more than 26 years, and never had a fault, neither have I been fined. Our club consists chiefly of poor labouring men; many of them can neither read nor write, and there are three or four members of the club have always ruled it, settled everything, letting none of the other members know anything.

They are in the habit every feast day of taking so much money out of the box towards drinking, generally about 30 s., I think, also 6 d. each towards the dinner; this I know is not right; and because I opposed such scandalous proceedings, a few of the members thought they would expel me the first opportunity, which they have done now they think. There are one or two teetotallers in the club, so last feast day (this I know for a fact), they had taken some money out of the box for drink; one of these teetotallers asked for a glass of teetotal drink; he was refused, and told that he must buy it for himself. Some of the other members stopped till two or three o'clock the next morning, to finish the drink bought with money taken out of the box. Three or four of them were found next morning in a beastly state of intoxication, and carried home; is this right? such behaviour as this at a club feast is very bad, and ought at once to be put a stop too. I beg that you will interfere with the club, as I am sure they have carried on this game long enough. Wishing that you will give this your attention, and inform me at your convenience whether I ought to be expelled for such a trivial thing as not paying for a dinner. I never was behind in my contributions, always regular; in the last instance I offered it, but they refused it unless I paid the 1 s. 6 d. which I would not do.

If they are right, then I must take legal proceedings against the club to try and recover the amount I have paid in for 26 years.

Trusting that you will excuse me for the liberty I have taken in addressing you, but I want this put right, and hope that you will condescend to reply, giving me all the information you can.

Report.

Sir,

I BEG most respectfully on behalf of myself and other members of the —— Lodge of Odd Fellows, M. U., to call your attention to the 38th rule of our lodge, and you will find that any member giving seven days' notice that he cannot attend at the procession or dinner, cannot be charged with the dinner, or fined.

At a meeting summoned to decide whether there should or should not be any celebration of this year's anniversary a resolution was passed rescinding a portion of the 38th rule, and another was passed that there should be a procession and dinner, and that all members be compelled to attend, or be charged with the dinner the same as if present (1 s. towards the band expenses, all members have to pay whether they attend or not); now, sir, as the rules can only be altered in the manner indicated in the 55th Rule, a member yesterday asked one of the officers of the lodge if the law, as altered, had received the signature of the Registrar, the only answer he could obtain was oaths and abuse, in consequence of which treatment he and others have some doubts as to whether they are enforcing the law without it having been certified by you; under these cirumstances I should feel thankfull (if not asking an unusual favour), if you would inform me whether the law as altered, has been certified by you. In order to give you as little trouble as possible, I enclose a copy of lodge rules, also summons to anniversary, hoping you will not be offended at my addressing you.

Sir,

YOU certified our rules on the 8th of May 1860, No. 3,869. All most since you certified our rules the heave been violated as follows:— the 22 rule is brocken by a small majority, by been compeled to pay 1 s. 6 d. per month insted of 1 s. 4 d. per month; the 44 by not paying up the conterbutions and arraers in the mohth of June. The 67 by adding 2 d. per month for liqor to the conterbutions; the 72 by not heaving the committee meetings on the days apointed by the rule: the 27 chapter of the Friendly Society Act sayes, all altertions and amendments must bee certified by you before it can come into operration. A number of the members thing that the rules are brocken, members that is following busness, that cannot attened the meeting nights is compeled to pay 2 d. for others member to drink, whitch cause a great deel of malce among the members. We thing it is onthing but right and just to pay for our liqor ourslef the same as members in others society do that is certified by you; we hope that you will be so kind as to write to our secretary that no liqor is requered from members.

Sir,

I AM a member of the —— Friendly Society. I should be obliged to you if you will inform me if I am compelled to attend a feast (once a year) or not, likewise the rules express that each member partaking thereof shall pay 2 s. 6 d. for the same; now a member makes a proposition a proposition that each member pays 2 s. instead of 2 s. 6 d., and the remainder to be paid out of the funds of the Society, which will amount to 4 l. 18 s. Here is a body of men, the majority over 40 years of age, and it is as much as bargain they can keep from meddling with the funds to pay expenses of sick members now (leaving out of question what it will be ten years to come), want to eat and drink what little they have in kind.

I think myself if there is to be a stuffing, let each dip into his pocket and pay for it. An answer will oblige.

P.S.—If the feast is paid for out of the funds, what means must be employed to get refunded?

Sir,

In a society lately certefied by you there are several members, includeing myself, that are not able to attend more than two or three meeting nights in a year, but send our monies every meeting night; and in the rules belonging to the said society, it says that each member shall pay 11 d. each meeting night into the Sick and Funeral Fund, and 5 d. into the Management Fund; but instead of that there is 3 d. taken out for ale, and only 2 d. into the fund, and we think it not right to be compelled to pay for ale that we never partake off; therefore I take the liberty in writeing to ask you wither we are compelled to do so or not: by furnishing me with such information you will much oblige.

Sir,

Hoping you will pardon me for troubling you, I would beg a favour, by asking from a little information. I am a member of the A. O. F. Court. In celebrating our anniversary, we are in habit of doing so by having a dinner, the expense of which we pay out of the expense of Management Fund, to which I object, as I think it is not legal to do so, and more so, as we do not ever see the expense repaid by the whole who have ticket or otherwise, so we always loose money by the dinner in some way or other, which cannot be right; and as I wish to protest against any such thing happing again, backed by your advise, and also is it not improper to place the dividend arising from money in the stocks to the expense of Management Fund alone, when I think each fund should receive its proper proportion of the dividend as standing to the account of each separate fund on the books: an answer to these will greatly oblige.

Sir,

The members (or at least a part of them) of the society would feel obliged by your advice. The rules were certified by you on the 1st of April 1834, and the 8th rule states that every member on the monthly nights of meeting shall pay into the fund 1 s. 2 d., and it is also stated in a note opposite this rule, that every member shall take what refreshment he pleases, and pay for it himself. Now it has always been a custom with the clerk and stewards not only to demand 1 s. 2 d., but also 4 d. from each member to be spent for beer; several of the members are dissatisfied with this, and wish to be guided by the rules; they have no wish to be compelled to spend 4 d. every club night; being most of them labouring men, they have use for their money other ways; but when they offer the 1 s. 2 d. as they have done on the two last club nights, the stewards have refused to take it, and the answer they get is that if the 4 d for beer is not paid as well as the other it will not be received at all; they would feel obliged to you if you would either write to the clerk upon the subject, or to ————, who is one of the dissatisfied members, that they may know how to act.

Sir,

I WISH to trouble you with a few lines on the following subject: I am a labouring man, residing at ————, and was a member of the friendly society; but, having a family to support, I did not find it convenient to attend the Witsuntide festival of the present year, as the 4 s. 4 d. expenses for the festival day was more than I could afford to pay, whereupon their committee expelled me, unless I choose to pay 6 s. 10 d. as fine and expenses. Now I have been given to understand that you will not sancition any rule to compell a member to pay these expences; but I wish just to state that a bye-law was made to bind us to it; but as I presume I will not be of any purpose without your approval; I therefore beg to ask you if I am correct in the presumpsion; also I wish to solicit your opinion wheather I could be wrong in issuing a summons against the officers to appear before a justice of the peace to answer to the charge, as I have no faith in the arbitrators, as they would be sure to give judgement against me, being generally interested in the landlord, &c.

Sir,

EVER since you registrard the ruls of the friendly sociaty their as been more or less of dissitisfation with respect to the members having the previledge of attending or not attending the aniual feast.

Those of the members who is in favour with feasting met on the 26th of May 1863, and, after pertakeing of the dinner provided on that ocation, the club-master made a propision, which of corse passed, and wich thay want to inforce on all the members. The propision was to this affect, that all members in the sociaty should pay 1 d. per mounth towards the 2 s. 6 d. menshoned in the 14th rule, and in case of their non-attendance at the aniul feast the 1 s. 1 d. thay had paid should not be returned, but put in the club genarel fund.

These proceedings, in my opinion, is not in accordance with the 14th, 34th, 37th rule, and the 33th, on the 18 page, of which rules you have a copy. The propision is not only a voilation of the ruls, but as caused very much dissatisfaction amoungst the members; thay are unwilling to pay 1 d. per mounth towards a aniul feast.

We are quite satisfied with the provision of the 14th rule, but we look on these proceeding as compulsive and opressive, and we cannot not think that you will sanshion or countinance anything of that nature.

But, sir, the proceedings of the maneggers of the sociaty outstrip all I think that have gone before them, for, without even calling a meeting, or makeing a by-rule, thay returned to me my two mounth contribution on the 1st day of August 1863, because I refused to pay 1 d. per mounth towards next feast-day's dinner, wich will be in cather May or June 1864; and mine is not a solatery case, for on inquireing I find the committy have ackted in the same way with many others. I hope you will not be offended at me wrighting to you on this subgect. I am quite aware that all disputes should be settled by arbitration; but this is not only a dispute, but a braking up of the ruls without your knowledge.

The committy seams bent on their own way at the sacrefise of cather law or ruls; so I thought before putting my case into the hands of a solicator I would strive to communicate with you, hoping you will, at your best conveniance, give me a word of instructon on the subgect.

Sir,

A COMMITTEE meeting of certain members of the society was held yesterday, for the purpose of making arrangements for the usual anniversary of the society (which has, up to last year, been held about the middle of September in each year), the expenses of such anniversary having been heretofore borne by and paid out of a fund called the "Incidental Expense Fund."

At the above meeting, a member of the society produced the "Daily Telegraph" of Friday the 14th of August instant, and read therefrom what purported to be a copy of a case submitted by you to Her Majesty's Attorney General, and of his (the Attorney General's) opinion thereon.

He and another of the members present contended that, having such case and opinion before the committee, it would be illegal again to sanction any of the expenses attending the anniversary being borne by or paid out of the Incidental Expense Fund.

It was contended, on the other hand, that (under the circumstances I will now refer to) it was not illegal to pay certain of the expenses attending the anniversary out of the above fund.

The circumstances are these: During the first few years after the formation of the society, in the year 1844, the contribution to the Incidental Expense Fund was 6 d. per quarter, and the members were annually requested to meet on a certain day, and dine together at their own expense; but, the numbers falling off in the attendance at such dinner, it was resolved, in or about the year 1848, that the contribution to the Incidental Expense Fund should be raised to 1 s. per quarter, of which sum 6 d. was to be considered as towards the society's management expenses, and 6 d. towards a ticket for a dinner at the anniversary (the price of which ticket has been 2 s.).

The Incidental Fund is, by Rule 19, to be kept separate and distinct from the General Fund; but there is no rule in the society's laws as to the application of the same, except under this rule.

Report.

The Incidental Fund did fall short, and the amount was, on 20th February 1862, raised from 1 s. to 1 s. 1½ d. per quarter, and the alteration was duly registered (7½ d. of such last sum being understood to be towards the society's management expenses, and 6 d. towards the dinner ticket).

Under the circumstances above stated, and in order to avoid the unpleasantness that seemed likely to arise amongst our members on the subject of the legality or illegality of the payment of 2 s. for a dinner ticket for each member of the society out of the Incidental Fund, as heretofore, it was unanimously resolved at the above meeting (after a motion to the effect, "That the anniversary meeting be held on Wednesday, the 16th September, and paid for by monies had and received by —— for that express purpose," had been carried by a large majority over an amendment to the same motion, to the effect, "That the anniversary meeting be held on Wednesday the 16th September, but that the expenses be not defrayed from the Incidental Fund,") that the meeting be adjourned until Tuesday next, the 25th instant, and that in the meantime I should write to you upon the matter, and ask your opinion as to what course we had better pursue to avoid all difficulties.

Several members present at the meeting expressed an opinion that many members of the society, having paid their 6 d. per quarter for the express purpose of obtaining a dinner ticket at the anniversary (this being so endorsed on their subscription cards, and mentioned on the printed statement of accounts), they would be dissatisfied unless they had it, and dined together as usual. By all members the dinner is looked forward to with great pleasure, and to do away with it (which it must be unless the expenses are met in the usual way) would disappoint many of a very pleasant meeting.

Under these circumstances I shall be glad if you will consider the matter, and let me have your opinion on the same in time for the meeting next Tuesday, 25th instant.

I would suggest that such payments out of our Incidental Fund can hardly be classed amongst those expressly enumerated in your case; but should you be of opinion that they are illegal, then I fear we should get into litigation for not supplying members with what they distinctly paid for; such a state, with a society of this nature, should be avoided if possible.

It would have been proposed at the meeting yesterday, that a case be submitted to some eminent counsel for advice, but you having the Attorney General's opinion, it was thought due to you, in courtesy, to apply to you in the first place.

P. S.—If this anniversary is allowed to pass over we will then make the required alteration, to meet your wishes.

Sir,

I FIND there is a very strict law come in force against benefit societies spending any monies on account of ale and dinners, &c., and a heavy penalty for those who sanction such things, and as I want to keep clear of such myself, I beg leave to ask you a few questions on the subject.

1st. As

Report.

1st. As I am only their book-keeper, I never touch a single penny of their money, only keep an account of it how it is spended. Am I subject to a fine or imprisonment? The two stewards, who are changed every year, are the men who pay and receive all monies; but I am present to keep such accounts, and I know there is a great deal paid for such things in my presence, and they tell me that I am only their servant, liable to three months' notice if I refuse to keep their accounts.

I have four benefit societies, and I pay about, or rather keep account, of about 30 l. per annum for ale, and I have paid above 100 l. per annum for feast, band, flags, &c.

Please let me know if I am liable to the fine; the law has never put its finger upon me in all my life, and I wish to keep free from it now. How am I to act to keep so, and who are the responsible parties? It will be a great loss to me to give them up, as, of course, I am paid for my service; but I would rather that than get into trouble.

P. S.—I wish your answer to read to the societies.

Sir,

I BEG respectfully to trouble you respecting an article in the newspapers, edited "Misapplication of the Funds of Friendly Societies."

1st. Are we to understand that Court ——, duly registered under the Friendly Societies Act, 13 & 14 Vict. c. 115, is to be liable to a fine of 20 l. for paying their incidental expenses, such as liquor, bands, gifts to distressed members, and presentations to deserving officers, out of the Management Fund, when the registered rule reads thus: "Every member of this society shall pay the sum of 1 s. 6 d. per month, 2 d. of which sum shall go to the fund for general management and expenses, and 1 l. annually of interest on stock and all fines;" and the above rule being distinctly understood by the members when it was first registered, that all the above-named items could be legally paid for out of the said fund? if so, the members are deceived, for they have considered themselves justified in making use of the Management Fund to pay all incidental expenses that a majority of the members might agree to incur.

2d. At the end of the article referred to in the newspaper, it says, "Under the advice of the Attorney General, as above-mentioned, it is the intention of the Registrar of Friendly Societies in England to take proceedings, pursuant to 23 & 24 Vict., c. 58, s. 9, against any officer, &c. of a friendly society who shall offend against the provisions of the 18th & 19th Vict. c. 63, s. 24." The question arises, what are those societies to do who have no knowledge of what the above Act is, and who are ignorant as to the way by which such knowledge is to be acquired?

3d. If registered societies are not to do, as they justly ought to do, what they like with their Management Fund, how are the items I have referred to, to be paid for? Such expenses are inseparably connected with sick and burial societies; the Management Fund has been looked up to as the only way to pay such expenses; and if they must not have a fund to pay for such items, what are they to do?

4th. It becomes a question what items the Registrar will consider sider as lawful to be paid for out of the said fund. Perhaps the Registrar will be kind enough to name what items a registered society will be allowed to incur, if they must think of paying for them out of such fund, for it is evident that Parliament keeps encroaching on the liberties of registered societies so much, that they are not allowed to do as they like with their own. This over meddling is not unlikely to lead to much dissension and uncomfortableness amongst the members of registered societies, and will cause many that are now registered to get themselves unregistered.

5th. Will you be so kind as to forward such information by return of post to Court —— as you may consider necessary for their guidance, and for the right understanding of the things I have named. We understand you (the Registrar) to be the individual to whom we are to apply for information; and having myself applied to you before, I know you to be very courteous in forwarding the necessary information; you will therefore oblige your humble servant, and the society he represents, by the return of such favours.

Sir,

On the 1st December 1862 the —— lodge of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows, Manchester Unity, it being a regular lodge night, voted for the —— Distress Fund the sum of Ten pounds (10 l.), without any previous notice having been given. The treasurer paid the whole sum over to the "Relief Fund" the following morning, on condition that One pound (1 l.) be voted each night, for ten successive nights, out of the Management Fund. While at the audit immediately preceding the voting of the money, the said fund was only worth 1 l. 13 s. 11 d.

On the 18th December 1862 we reported the circumstance to you, and on the 24th of the same month you sent us the following reply:

"The voting the money was clearly illegal; it cannot be paid out of the Management Fund, and the officers who paid it may be proceeded against under 18 & 19 Vict. c. 63, s. 24.

"J. Tidd Pratt.

"24 December 1862."

On the 12th January 1863 the above reply was read to the lodge, and at the same time a letter from the Board of Directors at Manchester, stating that the voting the said 10 l. was a legal act, and that the members could be levied for the amount. On the 14th May last past the levy was proposed. The undersigned opposed it, but without success, and, though carried, it has never been put into force. At the same date (14th May) the sum of 1 l. 6 s. was voted out of the Management Fund, towards expenses incurred at the procession on the 10th March last, on the occasion of the marriage of the Prince of Wales.

As we have done all in our power to prevent the spending of money illegally, and as our efforts have been attended so far without success, we most respectfully pray that you will institute proceedings against the officers, in conformity with the Act of Parliament in such case made and provided.

Report.

Sir,

In perusing the daily papers, I find therein a paragraph, which has been put in by your consent, respecting the misapplying of the funds of friendly societies. I have taken the liberty, as a trustee of the Ancient Order of Foresters, to ask you which way I am to proceed to put a stop to the giving of 5 l. 5 s. as a testimonial to the late district secretary for services rendered, at the same time he receiving a salary of 35 l. per annum; and this testimonial is to be taken from the management fund, which has been passed by delegates at a late district meeting. If you will furnish me with the required information, as I am an officer of the trust, I shall deem it a favour, as I believe it will be for the benefit of hundreds of my fellow working men, believing the whole affair to be illegal.

Sir,

Having seen the enclosed in the "Birmingham Daily Post," I am induced to offer to you the following information upon the subject: From experience, I have always found that every friendly society which is held at a public-house spend the whole of the management fund on the same night it is received from the members; it is spent in ale, which is consumed by the members at every meeting, and the secretary's salary, and indeed every other expense which may be incurred by the society, is paid out of the general fund; and, whenever the society has its annual or other feasts, it is invariably paid for out of the general fund, with the members paying 1 s., and sometimes 1 s. 6 d. towards the expense of the dinner; but these are exceptions; the rule is to pay it out of the funds. These remarks apply only to those societies which are held at a public-house, and are the result of a twenty years' experience with them; the members generally think they are doing nothing wrong in doing so; these societies are generally looked upon as so many props to public-houses; and whenever a public-house is advertised to be let, it is often stated that there is one or more good clubs held at the house; and when a new tenant comes to a public-house, he generally gives a feast to the members, as an inducement for them to stop at the house; and when from any cause a society is about to remove to another house a keen competition arises among publicans to get it to come to their house; and I have known of four friendly societies at this village (which are enrolled) remove to other houses lately, and in each case a feast has been given by the landlord; and every new society that has been established in my knowledge in this place has been started by the landlord and a few of his influential friends as a support to his house; there is one society here which has been established upwards of 40 years, but has not been enrolled, and has numbered upwards of 120 members; it is now reduced to 18 old men, who are this day breaking it up, and dividing some 40 l. or 50 l. I believe these remarks apply to nearly all societies which are held at public-houses throughout the country.

Report.

Sir,

HAVING received some communications from you respecting certain payments from the incidental funds of the —— district of the Manchester Unity, such payments having been voted by a summoned committee of the society, and also sanctioned by the Board of Directors, the members find, by the Attorney General's opinion, that they are in error.

The officers will see that in future no such misapplication shall take place.

Sir,

I TAKE the liberty of addressing you on a subject that is creating a very painful feeling throughout the district of Foresters' friendly societies,—I mean the application of one of the order to you to prosecute our district officers for lending a sum of money to form a "flag fund."

The facts are simply these. The flag was paid for (or rather repairs) without the slightest intention to defraud; in reality it is a good speculation, as it is let out at a rental of 5 s. a day, and has already repaid a great portion of the outlay.

My object in applying to you is to request you kindly to refrain from prosecuting, providing the money is immediately repaid, and an assurance given that nothing of the kind shall ever be done again. If this can be done, I am sure it would be most desirable, as a prosecution will only render certain men very obnoxious, and lead to unpleasantness.

Perhaps I may add, that I am in no way immediately connected with the affair; I had no vote or voice in the matter; and it is but justice to add, that the district business is exceedingly well conducted, the chief brother —— being very desirous to act conscientiously.

Should you think well, I could soon send a memorial that would be signed by nearly every Forester in Leicester to the above effect.

To this letter the following answer was sent:

"Sir,

"I CAN assure you that the only unpleasant part of my official duties is that of having to remonstrate with parties for the misapplication of the funds of a friendly society; and, in answer to your's, received this morning, I can only say that I will refrain from taking proceedings against the officers under 18 & 19 Vict. c. 63, s. 24, if I am informed by the officers of the society that the money so misapplied has been repaid, with an assurance that nothing of the kind shall be done again.

"Your's faithfully,
"John Tidd Pratt."

Sir,

IN reply to yours of yesterday's date, I am much obliged for your kind offer to refrain from prosecuting the district officers of the —— district of A. O. F. I will take immediate steps with the district officers' district district for repayment of the money, and will forward you the necessary proofs of the same (together with an assurance that nothing of the kind shall occur again) within one week from this date. Report.

Sir,

Herewith I enclose a note from one of the district auditors, certifying the misappropriated money has been returned. The quarterly audit was a few days since, so I thought this the best form to produce.

On behalf of our district officers, allow me to thank you for the kindness you have shown, in allowing time to rectify this unfortunate error; and at the same time to assure you nothing of the kind shall again occur.

A half yearly printed balance sheet shall be forwarded when out, and any other satisfaction given you may require.

Sir,

As one of the auditors of the —— —— district of the Ancient Order of Foresters, I write to say that the money taken from the funds of the society as being paied into the hands of the tresurer. Trusting this will meet your approbation.

Sir,

I trust you will pardon me for taking the liberty of writing to you on the present occasion, but I do it on principle alone, because I consider it an injustice to those members who reside a long distance from the lodge, and are not able to attend the anniversary dinner. Trusting to have a reply to this at your earliest convenience.

At a meeting of the members of the ————, held at ————, it was proposed, seconded, and carried by a great majority of the members present, that an anniversary dinner should be held once in each year during the summer, when each member residing within five miles of the lodge should have ticket sent at least seven days previous to the day appointed to hold the anniversary, and that all the dinners should be paid for out of the incidental funds of the lodge, to defray which, each member residing within five miles of the lodge should pay equal shares, whether they attended the dinner or not; the same was sent to you for your approval, and returned again with the following reply:

"No part of the expenses to come out of the funds."

The members thinking you had no power to controul them in regard to the incidental fund, held another meeting on the 4th of August instant, when it was proposed, seconded, and carried, (no one making any objection to it except myself) that the expenses of the anniversary dinner shall be paid out of the incidental fund of the lodge, and a levy made throughout the lodge to meet the expenses, which I consider more unjust than the former resolution, because there is 11 members out of 54 residing more than five miles from the Report.

the lodge house; one is living in Ireland, one in Liverpool, five or six in or near London.

Our anniversary was held yesterday, the 24th; can the expenses be paid out of incidental fund, and a levy made throughout the lodge to meet it? If not, can the presiding officer of the lodge insist upon doing so? will you take legal proceedings against them, as specified in the "Daily Telegraph" of August the 14th, or not, as I have cautioned them, and they still persist in carrying it out as above stated?

Sir,

The ——— Society are in the habit of paying 18*s.* for ale out of the Management Fund every monthly meeting; but the committee met last Saturday, and gave notice to the landlord of the ——— that they could not spend another penny, but in future would either rent his room, or meet in the school-room. Will you please assist in this matter, so as to do away with this drink and feasting, &c., and I do not hesitate to say we should save 40*l.* or 50*l.* a year. The meeting is on Saturday evening. If you will please in the meantime send me down a document to the effect that you will proceed against the officer who pays for drink.

Sir,

An old sick club, called the Alfreton Old Red Lion Society, enrolled about 27th October 1841, and at the present time has divided among 53 members 500*l.* on Tuesday night last, and quite against some of the members' wish; they paid some 8*l.*, and some 10*l.* 2*s.* 4*d.*: and one of the youngest members had the dividing of the money, and he took one of the largest share; they have been saveing money for this last two years, after paying all the expences; they have set the laws at defiance, and have acted upon their own responsibility, and contrary to the wish of the magistrates, and all other people; there are two that has been against the society being broke up, tho they have received their share, which was the small share, 8*l.*, and nearly the oldest member, but it was taken with a protest. We have one honory member who gives 1*l.* a year, and has done for more than 30 years, which I understand they have paid it 77 years, has never been consulted by the dissatisfied party, altho he is a magistrate; they have never gone by the law in publishing it in one of the London papers; they have taken it upon themselves to do it in spite of either law or justice. Please to say by return what steps are to be taken, and how we are to proceed, as if they can stand by doing so, and no notice taken of the matter, what protection is the law against fraud or dissatisfaction among members of Friendly Societys; others will be following their example with impunity. Registration is no protection, the only thing for the members, if they fall sick, will be, they must apply to the parish for relief, and the parish surgeon too; what other information you require, I will give you. Please to say by return what we are to do; should we summons them them before the magistrates, or will they be treated in another way?

P. S.—The expences of a dinner on Whit Monday, taken out of the fund, 7*l.*, which was contrary to rule; and at the breaking of the society up, they ordered a dinner, and paid it out of the fund before they divided the money, 3*l.* 10*s.*

Dear Sir,

The members of ——— have ordered me, by a resolution passed in open court, to write and ask you if a brother belonging to a Registered Court of Foresters, should be a member of the Rifle Volunteers, and should die, whether the Volunteers can hinder the Foresters from attending the funeral of the deceased brother, and take the sole power into their own hands of taking up the body at the house of the deceased, and carrying it thence to the grave, and wholly excluding the Foresters from taking any active part in the affair?

The reason we venture to intrude upon your valuable time, to put this question, runs thus: we have had the misfortune to lose one of our members by sudden death, and he being a member of the Rifle Corps, the Volunteers wished to have a strict millitary funeral, and not let the Foresters attend; this being made known to us, we waited upon the drill-sergeant of the corps, and asked the previledge of taking up the body, and carrying it a little way from the house, and then let the Volunteers carry it to the church, and the Foresters carry it from the church to the grave. The first request was promised us, but the sergeant said that the major of the corps would attend the funeral, and that he would decide upon our second request, and let us know at the time the funeral took place; but judge of our surprise, when we reached the house of the deceased, the Volunteers had the body outside, ready to start, and would not let us go near it, so that we had to take up our position in the rear of all the rest; and had it not been for the friends and relatives of the deceased remonstrating with them, they would have started 15 minutes earlier than the appointed time; so when we saw their despotism, we gave way to them, and determined, if possible, to have information from an higher source; so that if we should again be placed in the same position, we shall know how to act; for we consider our registered laws as binding as the Volunteers' laws, and that we have an equal right to pay our last sad respects to a departed brother as the Rifle Volunteers. Hoping you will pardon the liberty we have taken to trouble you, and trespass on your most valuable time, and that you will favour with a reply as early as convenient.

Sir,

The ——— Society established in the year 1837, and holding its meetings at ———, have been compelled to remove to another house lately, on account of the landlord being sold off, having fallen into difficulties.

Like

Report.

Like most of the 300 or 400 benefit societies of a similar character held in Newcastle and Gateshead, the ——— placed its funds in the hands of the landlord, in whom they had every confidence, without receiving any security.

Some of the members are for placing our funds in the hands of the landlord of the house where we have gone to, and going on just as before; others, of the more thoughtful, are not content with this. My opinion is to place the funds in the Post Office Savings Bank, and I wrote to the Savings Bank Department of the General Post Office asking information as to their mode of doing business with Friendly Societies, and I have received a very satisfactory answer.

It appears, however, that our society not being certified by the Registrar of Friendly Societies, we cannot legally invest our funds in any savings bank; but the Controller very kindly points out that this can be done on application to you, and that the certifying entails no expense, and very little trouble. I believe that this is not generally known, and I shall be prepared to recommend it to the members of our society at their next meeting, on the 20th instant.

There are, doubtless, other benefits to be obtained in addition to the legality of its investments in Savings Banks, by having the rules of the Society certified; and as my proposition may meet with some opposition, I am desirous of having all the information I can get on this subject; I should therefore feel obliged if you will favour me with information of the benefits to be derived by certifying the rules, and any other information you may think proper. I intend to publish the letter I have received from the Post Office, for the information of other Societies in the district, but I shall await your answer before doing so.

Dear Sir,

In our society, philanthropists, we have admitted, according to rule, all persons without distinction of age, calling, or sex, between the ages of 18 and 36. We also offer half-pay, permanent, in case of sickness or infirmity.

Now, sir, the propositions I have taken to maintain in the society are these:—

1. That we cannot admit a collier or pitman on the same terms as one of less risk.
2. That it is unfair to admit a person of 35 years of age on the same terms as one at 25.
3. That a female is more liable to sickness than a man, and ought to pay more.
4. That a contribution of 1*s.* 4*d.* per month will not afford 8*s.* per week for six months, and after that continuous half-pay if the person should continue so sick or infirm.

Now, sir, as to the expression sick or infirm, and the force of it with us. I will give you a case in our society.

Eleven years ago a woman had a stroke of some kind; it took the use of one side, and so prevented her from following "her usual or customary employment." But about 18 months ago her mother died, and and so left her infirm daughter to the management of the house. It may be imperfect, but still she is the person that washes, bakes, and cleans the house, but she can't sew. And this woman is still receiving half-pay; that is, 3*s.* per week. I have protested against it, but it is of no use; it would be a pity, they say, to stop her pay. Report.

Since the formation of the committee for the revision of the rules, persons that are getting advanced in years say that it is only to stop their half-pay when they get too old to work; so you see, sir, it is being looked upon as an annuity in old age.

I have stated my position as plainly and as briefly as I could.

Now, sir, can you supply me with any statistics to support me in my four objections. If you can and will, you will very much oblige.

I am in a society called the ———— above three years, and last night been club night I found that thay are goin to call a commette on Saterday next, break it up, and form one that will not be enrold, and to obgect to who thay take in of the ones that is now on the books, and to devide it, so as to give nothing to some that as been on it; that is, one man is on it this good wild, and now on pay at 1*s.* 6*d* a week, and likely to continue; that is all. They say he as no part in it, and no need of his consent. I wishd them to write to you to make any admendmend in the rules, but thay will not, as thay whants thayr own lows; and I do not like that, as they can then do as thay think fit with every one; and I should like to know if thay can break it up, and on which way, as I hope thay cannot. Sure through emegration and other things the members is reduced to 21, but thair is about 31 l. or 32 l. now in money, besides other proporty, so the ones that as been paid out as much or nearly will have nothing, and those other few that as ad relife peraphs not so much, will have the money between them to do as thay like. I should like to know could we ammend the ruls to part the mony evry year, as thay are talking about. I consider the club no good that way. I should be much obligd to you if you can send me laws before Saturday, to show them they cannot, as I have strove heard to pay my clubs, and do not like to see it brook up and built on sandy foundation. I am not on the society, but I have been six weeks; and it is for that I paid; and I know as long as I am against the dissolution of it thay will not exept me. It is the trustees and officers is the most for it; I believe thay know what thay are about for thair selves. I hope, sir, you will give me, a poor working man, advice by return of post; and if thay cannot be stopt, on what grounds must the break it up; by so doing you will greatly oblige.

Sir,

Being a rather close observer of the workings of many of the old benefit societies held at public-houses, and knowing many paupers now in receipt of parish relief, who, in their younger days, were members of one or more of these societies, but, against the time of need, they found they had only been keeping publicans, officials, and loungers,

Report.

loungers, that the funds had all been squandered, and they had no alternative but to apply for public charity. Independent of the burden to the community, I consider this a great cruelty to the individuals themselves, that hard working men, who lived economically, and laid up what they trusted would be an assistance for them in old age and sickness, yet, when the time of need came, it was first found out that all their forethought and economy came to naught, and their fond hopes all a delusion.

Latterly we have a host of assurance societies inviting our attention, whose seat of management is in London, Liverpool, &c.; and by the number who join them it is plainly seen that working men are still desirous of living on their own resources, and not becoming a burden to the community; but it is feared that many of these will prove no better than the old ones.

It has been considered by a few of us, that the best way is to seek your advice in a thing of so much moment, seeing that it may be in many cases a contract for 40 or 50 years, or even upwards. We have seen the prospectus of "———— Benefit Society," held at ————; will you be so good as to inform us what your opinion is of that society as a safe investment; and if that is not, can you recommend any other or others as worthy of confidence of the working men. We see a good share of the public press speak very highly of this society; but knowing the influence that is brought to bear on these, we consider a word from you would be of the utmost importance. The importance of the subject must be my only plea for thus troubling you.

In consequence of the foregoing and other communications, (though the Registrar had no doubt on the subject), he thought it right to lay a case before the Attorney-General respecting the misapplication of the funds of friendly societies: the following is a copy of the case and opinion:

Important to Friendly Societies.

The Registrar of Friendly Societies in England having received from members of such societies numerous complaints of the misapplication of the funds, has thought it right to lay a case before the Attorney-General on the subject.

The following is a copy o such case, and the Attorney-General's opinion thereon:—

Case.

Under the Act 18 & 19 Vict c. 63 (s. 9), friendly societies may be established for the purpose of raising by voluntary subscriptions of the members thereof, with or without the aid of donations, a fund for any of the following objects; (that is to say)—

1. For insuring a sum of money to be paid on the birth of a member's child, or on the death of a member, or for the funeral expenses of the wife or child of a member:

2. For

2. For the relief or maintenance of the members, their husbands, wives, children, brothers or sisters, nephews or nieces, in old age, sickness, or widowhood, or the endowment of members or nominees of members at any age:

3. For any purpose which shall be authorised by one of Her Majesty's Principal Secretaries of State, or in Scotland by the Lord Advocate, as a purpose to which the powers and facilities of this Act ought to be extended:

Provided, that no member shall subscribe or contract for an annuity exceeding 30*l.* per annum, or a sum payable on death, or on any other contingency, exceeding 200*l.*

In addition to the voluntary subscriptions and donations by which these objects are to be carried out, by the 25th section, it is enacted that a contribution shall be made to defray the necessary expenses of management, and a separate account shall be kept of such contributions and expenses.

By the 24th section of the same Act it is enacted, that if any officer, member, or other person, being or representing himself to be a member of such society, or the nominee, executor, administrator, or assignee of a member thereof, or any person whatsoever, by false representation or imposition, shall obtain possession of any monies, securities, books, papers, or other effects of such society, or having the same in his possession shall withhold or misapply the same, or shall wilfully apply any part of the same to purposes other than those expressed or directed in the rules of such society, or any part thereof, it shall be lawful in England for any justice of the peace acting in the county or borough in which the place of business of such society shall be situated, upon complaint made by any person on behalf of such society, to summon the person against whom such complaint is made to appear at a time and place to be named in such summons; and any two justices present at the time and place mentioned in such summons shall proceed to hear and determine the said complaint, in manner directed by the Act passed in the 11th & 12th years of Her present Majesty, chap. 43; and if the said justices shall determine the said complaint to be proved against such person, they shall adjudge and order him to deliver up all such monies, securities, books, papers or other effects to the society, or to repay the amount of money applied improperly, and to pay, if they think fit, a further sum of money not exceeding 20*l.*, together with costs not exceeding 20*s.*; and, in default of such delivery of effects, or repayment of such amount of money, or payment of such penalty and costs aforesaid, the said justices may order the said persons so convicted to be imprisoned in the common gaol or House of Correction, with or without hard labour, for any time not exceeding three months: provided that no person shall be proceeded against by indictment, if a conviction shall have been previously obtained for the same offence under the provisions of this Act.

By 23 & 24 Vict. c. 58, s. 9, any application authorised by s. 24 of 18 & 19 Vict. c. 63, to be made by any person on behalf of a society, may be made by the Registrar.

In addition to rules for the payment of the contributions for the objects objects of the society, and necessary expenses of management, some friendly societies established before the passing of the 18 & 19 Vict. c. 63, and before there was any express provision for expenses of management, have a rule for making contributions for incidental expenses.

Report.

In several friendly societies the practice prevails of charging under the term incidental, every expenditure incurred that does not fall on the funds raised for sickness, death, or annuities, and such charges are paid either out of the General Fund or the Management, or Incidental Expense Fund, for example—

In the case of one society, the following items were charged:—

	£.	s.	d.
Liquor at monthly meeting - -	9	–	–
Band at the anniversary - - -	6	–	–
Dinners to persons carrying banners -	–	6	9
Donation to Lancashire Relief Fund -	5	–	–
Grant for procession and dinner on the marriage of H. R. H. the Prince of Wales - - - - - -	10	–	–

Charges for feasting, and processions at anniversaries, the purchase or hire of banners, ribbons, aprons, and personal decorations of various kinds, for bellringing, &c., also occur in the accounts of some friendly societies.

Questions.	Answers.
Your opinion is requested, 1st, Whether any of the funds raised under the authority of the 9th or 25th sections of the Act, can be legally applied to any of the items of expenses above mentioned or to any similar items?	1st. I am of opinion that no part of the funds raised under the authority of the 9th or 25th sections of the Act, can be legally applied to any of the items of expenses above mentioned, or to any similar items. They are entirely unconnected either with the insurance and relief, &c., mentioned in the 9th section, or with the expenses of management referred to in the 25th.
2d. Whether any of the funds raised under the authority of a rule for incidental expenses can be legally applied to any of the items of expense above mentioned, or to any similar items, and whether incidental expenses must not be such as are necessary to, or connected with, the purposes for which the society is established?	2d. I think that no part of any funds raised under the authority of a rule for incidental expenses, can be legally applied to any of the items of expense above mentioned, or to any similar items. The expression "incidental expenses" must be reasonably understood; and within those limits, may receive a liberal interpretation; but it is clear that the meaning cannot be stretched beyond matters necessary to, or directly connected with, the main purposes for which the Society is established.

3d. Should the opinion be that neither of the funds can be legally applied to the expenses referred to, can proceedings be taken under s. 24 against the member, or officer, paying away the funds for such purpose, for wilfully applying "the funds to purposes other than those expressed or directed in the rules?"

3d. Proceedings may be taken against the member or officer paying away the funds for any of these purposes, provided in doing so he is guilty of a "wilful" misapplication of the funds. In order to put the wilfulness beyond a reasonable doubt, I would advise that the attention of the various officers, &c. charged with the custody and disbursement of the funds, should be pointedly called to the state of the law on this subject, and that they should be apprized that future misapplications will be treated as wilful, and punished accordingly.

4th. Can any member aggrieved at such expenditure being incurred, commence proceedings under section 24, as being "a person on behalf of such Society?" or, must the consent of the Society be first obtained; and if that cannot be obtained, can proceedings be taken except by the Registrar under 23d and 24th Vict. c. 58, s. 9?

4th. I am of opinion that no person, other than the Registrar, can commence proceedings under section 24, without the consent of the Society to his so doing being first obtained; but, that, independent of any such consent, proceedings may be taken by the Registrar under 23 and 24 Vict. c. 58, s. 9.

(signed) Wm. Atherton.

Temple, 24th July 1863.

In order to carry out the suggestion of the Attorney General, a copy of the case and opinion was sent to every newspaper published in London, and to more than EIGHT HUNDRED PROVINCIAL NEWSPAPERS, and it is the intention of the Registrar to enclose a copy in every form of Annual Statement which he will send to Friendly Societies in December next, and will feel it to be his duty, on being furnished with evidence of the misapplication of the funds, to take proceedings, under 18 & 19 Vict. c. 63, s. 24, against the officers so offending.

The following extracts from a few of the newspapers will show the opinion of the public Press on the question:—

Friendly Societies.

Friendly Societies occupy such an important place in our social system, and are capable of being made so useful to the working classes, that anything which tends to lower their tone and divert them from their proper objects, is very much to be regretted. The association of a number of persons for the purpose of raising funds in the nature of life insurance, or for securing relief in sickness and old age, is an admirable idea, and when carried out with honesty and intelligence, is productive of the greatest advantages. The members of such an association, while providing for the evil days which come to us all, learn habits of foresight and economy well calculated to raise their social position, while its managers must sharpen their wits and increase their knowledge of business by attention to its concerns. But it is in the highest degree necessary that the funds of the society should be religiously guarded from misappropriation, and that the business meetings should not be converted into opportunities for squandering those funds in extravagant dissipation. It is surely a strange perversion of their professed objects to devote a great part of the moneys raised in the name of thrift and economy to the mere animal enjoyment of the passing hour. It seems, however, from a paper which has been furnished to us by the Registrar of Friendly Societies that it is only too common among societies of that class to throw away their money in liquor and amusements, and thus to consume funds which ought to have been devoted to very different purposes. As a specimen of this scandalous misappropriation, the Registrar tells us that in the case of one society the following items were charged:—

Report.

	£.	s.	d.
Liquor at monthly meeting - - - -	9	–	–
Band at the anniversary - - - - -	6	–	–
Grant for procession and dinner on the marriage of H. R. H. the Prince of Wales - - -	10	–	–

Here are 25*l.* actually thrown away in mere parade and guzzling; that sum, too, having been put into the coffers of the society for the purpose of affording relief in sickness, and assisting the families of contributors after their death.

So many and such flagrant instances of similar practices have come under the notice of the Registrar that he has thought proper to call the attention of the Attorney-General to the matter, and to ask him whether he thinks such payments are legal, and, if they are illegal, how those who make them may be punished. To these questions the Attorney-General replies that the payments are, in his opinion, illegal, and that those officers or members of Friendly Societies who make them may be punished on complaint made before justices by the Registrar. That officer has now given public notice of his intention to set the law in motion against officers of Friendly Societies who misapply the moneys of their constituents in the manner to which we have alluded, and we trust he will act upon the determination which he has thus expressed. The managers and members of these societies who have now had the matter pressed upon their attention, will, however, we hope, themselves suppress the crying evil of which the Registrar complains, and thus fully carry out the professed objects of their associations. We should strongly advise the framers of new societies to prohibit by their rules all meetings for business at public houses, and all consumption of liquor at such meetings. Drink and business never go well together.

Feasts and Friendly Societies.

Who has not felt the difficulties of the ordinary Friendly Society? Who has not hung suspended between its advantages and drawbacks, doubtful whether to assist or to discourage? The advantages are, of course, sufficiently obvious, and, as long as our acquaintance with the society is made only through its printed papers, seem weighty enough to conclude the question at once. Relief for the sick, annuities for the aged, assistance in the funeral expenses of the deceased, are all things which are undoubtedly good and useful. And perhaps even more useful still are the habits of foresight and prudence which are implied in becoming a member of such a society. To be able to put by a fragment of wages weekly or monthly, to exercise continually an actual present self-denial for the sake of a future and contingent benefit, is a species of self-discipline in a direction which is particularly needed by the class who are thus encouraged to it. All this is fair and unimpeachable in theory. But they who look closer at the actual working of these Societies know that there is a great deal on the other side. First of all, there is the uncertain character of their duration. Popular favour varies rapidly and capriciously. A new club starts with some attractive novelty, which enlists all the young people of the generation. The old club drops out of repute; no new members join it, and old men who have been paying into it all their life find at last, when the time for receiving comes, that it is composed only of their own contemporaries, who are now in the same condition with themselves, that the outgoings are consequently large and the incomings small, that the box will soon be emptied, and the fancied security in sickness and infirmity, for which they have paid so dearly and so long, will turn out an idle dream. For this, however, there is no royal remedy. The Legislature has done what it can in this direction by enacting that the rules of Friendly Societies shall be approved by a public officer, the Registrar, and so providing that the scale of payments shall at least be drawn up on sound economical principles. More than this it cannot do: the veering of the popular breeze is as much beyond its control as the waves of the sea were beyond Canute's command; and for that, these institutions, like all others, must take their own chance, and make their own provisions. But there are other evils which do seem more within the reach of law. All who are familiar with Friendly Societies know very well that they mean a great deal more than the mere payment of certain premiums, and the reception, in time of need, of certain equivalent benefits. They know that they are clubs in another sense of the word also. The name is associated in their minds with bands and banners, and processions, with scarfs and rosettes, with public-house dinners, and all their natural concomitants. Too often the Club-day in a village means a day of rioting and drunkenness; a day on which respectable people shut up their houses and keep indoors, or take the opportunity of paying a visit to friends at a distance. It is true, these days have sometimes been seized by an energetic clergyman, and turned into occasions of rational and Christian relaxation, and the sermon, with which nearly all of them are from old custom connected, affords a ready fulcrum for the lever in a skilful hand. But it needs a skilful hand and a happy conjuncture of circumstances to effect this: so many interests are involved, so many motives are enlisted, in the old state of things, that it is often impossible to alter it, and the clergyman goes on year after year giving his subscription with a protest, and preaching an ineffectual sermon against the evils which have rooted themselves in the toleration of immemorial custom. And even if local clubs could be more generally modified, there are wider associations which defy the limited efforts of personal influence. Most of us have seen, at some time or other, the quaint costume, the hieroglyphic banners and long files of members which proclaim the advent, on some gala day, of the company of the Druids, or Odd Fellows, or the Ancient Order of Foresters. All of us read, from time to time, paragraphs descriptive of the fêtes and concerts, and amusements, often celebrated in the gardens of some notorious public-house, by which these and other such societies attract fresh members to their books. One of them is not likely to be soon forgotten. It was at a Foresters' fête that the unhappy rope-dancer perished the other day, whose death awakened such universal commiseration; and it was a Foresters' committee who decided that so trifling an incident should not be allowed to interfere with the enjoyment of the company they had collected, or the success of the Society for which they were working. And most of these societies, local or general, share in the common vice of making the public-house their home and hearth, the place where all monies are paid and collected, and where, accordingly, a good deal of money is certain to be spent.

Something can certainly be done, not perhaps to prevent, but to discourage all this, and to clear these societies, excellent in their origin and intention, from the unsightly and pernicious funguses which have grown up around them. And our readers will be glad to know that something is at any rate to be attempted. The Registrar of Friendly Societies has just issued a very important paper, in the shape of a case submitted to the Attorney-General, with his opinion thereon. It seems that certain societies have been in the habit of charging in their accounts the expenses of such amusements as we have been describing. In one case which the Registrar quotes, the following items occur:—

Liquor at monthly meeting - - - -	9	–	–
Band at the anniversary - - - - -	6	–	–
Dinners to persons carrying banners - - -	–	6	9
Donation to Lancashire Relief Fund - - -	5	–	–
Grant for procession and dinner on the marriage of H. R. H. the Prince of Wales - - -	10	–	–

"Charges for feasting," he adds, "and processions at anniversaries, the purchase or hire of banners, ribbons, aprons, and personal decorations of various kinds, for bell-ringing, &c., also occur in the accounts of some Friendly Societies." Whether these and similar items can be legally charged to the funds of the societies under the Act which alone gives them a legal existence, is the significant question question which the Registrar asks of the Attorney-General. His answer is simple and conclusive. Neither under the head of general fund, or management, or incidental expenses—the only three divisions of expenditure which the Act recognises—does he think they can find a place. Any officer authorising such expenditure may, in his opinion, be compelled by any two justices of the peace to refund all he has laid out, and to pay a fine besides not exceeding 20 l. This machinery cannot, indeed, be set in motion by any single member of the society, but it may be done by a vote of the whole body, and, what is much more to the purpose, it can be done by the Registrar alone of his own mere motion. And the Registrar, in the paper from which we have been quoting, declares his intention of taking proceedings in future against any person who shall so offend.

The expenditure, therefore, of the funds of Friendly Societies upon these objectionable adjuncts will probably be stopped. Of course this does not imply that these accompaniments will altogether cease. They will probably be continued in many cases by voluntary and additional contributions. But there will be this advantage, that only those who wish for them will pay for them, that quiet members will not be obliged to join in the conviviality of riotous ones, and that it will be possible for those who like to gain the benefits of a Friendly Society without being involved in its disorders. Those who take advantage of this may perhaps be a small minority at first; but they will feel that the law has spoken on their side, and that the old system has received a great moral discouragement. We may hope that by degrees the feasts and processions will sink more and more into the background, and the real and permanent benefits of a society constitute also its chief attraction.

The West Surrey Times.

Mr. Tidd Pratt, the Registrar of Friendly Societies, has rendered many a good service to the working classes of England, but none more likely to accomplish greater ends than that which he has just achieved with regard to the "legal expenses" which a Friendly Society may incur.

It is a condition of human existence, that with every good there is a certain amount of evil. There can be no such thing in a sinful world as an unmixed good. It is one of the results of the Fall, and affords a convincing proof of the naturally degenerate condition of mankind. To the pious and reflective mind, this constant interweaving of evil with good is a source of the deepest grief: but whilst men's ambitions, passions, vices are what they are, the fairest projects will ever be marred, and the most promising prospects destroyed, by some ingredient of a blighting and destructive character.

Viewed in the abstract, there can be no more useful or desirable thing for the working classes than Friendly Societies. They enable a man to make provision against sickness, accident, and old age. The principle on which they rest is one of the noblest and purest that can operate in the human breast; it is that the strong, and the hale, and the young, should help the weak, and the infirm, and the aged. These societies effect, by combination amongst their members, that which wealth secures for the rich—medical attendance in time of sickness; a certain weekly stipend during the same period, which keeps a man above want, and frees the mind from the carking cares incidental to a different state of things; and provision for old age. These are the objects most commonly contemplated by Friendly Societies; but there are a variety of other useful and provident ends at which they also aim, according to the special requirements of the districts in which they are located. To show how wide and varied is their scope, it may suffice to mention that under the 18th & 19th Vict. c. 63, s. 9, Friendly Societies may be established for the purpose of raising by voluntary subscriptions of the members, a fund for any of the following objects:—for insuring a sum of money to be paid on the birth of a member's child; or on the death of a member; or for the funeral expenses of the wife or child of a member; or for the relief or maintenance of the members, their husbands, wives, children, brothers, sisters, nephews, or nieces, in old age, sickness, or widowhood; or for the endowment of members, or nominees of members, at any age. All these are most praiseworthy objects, and if societies for any of these purposes be soundly established and prudently conducted, their financial success and ability to perform their engagements are beyond dispute. It is scarcely necessary to say, that a good deal of mischief has nevertheless been engrafted on to some of these societies. Dishonest treasurers or managers occasionally decamp with the funds; members, after contributing to them for years, are now and then arbitrarily, and without just cause, expelled; at intervals, fraudulent societies are set on foot, an instance of which has just been brought to light before a London magistrate. A number of fellows proposed to establish what they termed the "Perseverance Friendly Society;" they collected considerable sums in weekly payments of threepences and fourpences from poor persons, and lived upon the proceeds; so that when those who thought they had been making prudent provision against the day of sickness applied for the promised relief, the whole affair collapsed, and they found that they had been duped. There have been instances too in which fathers and mothers and husbands have been vile enough to pervert from their praiseworthy object the uses of the burial club, and have actually murdered offspring and wives to secure the "club money." Finally, a fertile source of mischief, often arising from these societies holding their meetings at public-houses, leading to intemperance on the part of the members, and frequently sapping the foundations of the society, results from expending the funds on illegal purposes, such as drinking, feasting, processions, bell-ringing, and the like.

It is against this last that Mr. Tidd Pratt has now directed the powerful armoury of his influence. By the 24th sect. of the Act, which we have already named, it is provided that if any officer, &c., of a Friendly Society shall misapply any money in his possession belonging to such society, or shall wilfully apply any part of the same to purposes other than those expressed or directed in the rules of the society, he may be summoned before two justices of the peace, who are empowered, on proof of the complaint, to order the repayment of the the money, and inflict a penalty not exceeding 20*l.* and costs, or in default, three months' hard labour in the house of correction. The question arises then, "What are the purposes to which the funds of a Friendly Society cannot legally be applied?" And upon this Mr. Tidd Pratt has drawn up a case, and obtained the opinion of the Attorney General. Report.

[Here follows the Case and Opinion.]

What the Registrar "may" do in such cases, he evidently "ought" to do. So at least that zealous and efficient officer, Mr. Tidd Pratt, interprets his duties; and he has accordingly intimated to the managers of all Friendly Societies in England that, acting under the advice of the Attorney General, it is his intention to take proceedings pursuant to 23 & 24 Vict. c. 58, s. 9, against any officer, &c., of a Friendly Society who shall offend against the provisions of the 18th and 19th Vict. c. 63, s. 24.

We trust that this will put an end to the feasting and guzzling so often incidental to the meetings of so-called Benefit and Friendly Societies. It is totally at variance with the objects for which such societies are established. The money of the members cannot legally be squandered on any such purposes; and if the managers neglect this warning, they will unquestionably be proceeded against by the Registrar.

Friendly Societies—Important Notice.

The large amount of capital invested by the working men of England in Friendly Societies and Savings Banks has, on more than one occasion, been alluded to in these columns; and we are so impressed with the immense national good gained by the cultivation of provident habits, that we would not willingly let slip any opportunity of urging on such of our readers as may come under the denomination of working men, the many advantages of making these investments.

One of the first requisites for a working man's investment, as we have already insisted, is perfect security, and in establishing the Post Office Savings Bank the Government have done all that could be desired in this way, so that in putting his money in a Savings Bank no man needs now to fear defalcation. Much has recently been done too by way of legislation to bring about a better state of things in regard to Friendly Societies, and no doubt many and many an abuse of funds has ceased, and many a rotten society has been swept out of existence before the dreaded name of John Tidd Pratt, and his inexorable Tables.

Still, however, we are constantly hearing complaints as to the misapplication of funds, and even in our own local societies, admirably managed as we believe them to be, there is no want of grumblers.

Report.

All these things are deeply to be regretted, interfering as they do with the progress of such deserving institutions, and creating prejudices in the minds of those who ought to benefit by them. It is therefore with peculiar satisfaction that we have perused a notice sent us by the Registrar of Friendly Societies, which will at once set at rest a long vexed question.

It seems that the Registrar has received numerous complaints concerning the misapplication of funds from members of different societies, and for his own guidance has thought it right to lay a case before the Attorney General, and that gentleman has given an opinion on the same of great importance to Friendly Societies, their managers, and members. Any one who knows anything of the working of these societies, also knows that these complaints are in general connected with the expenses of anniversaries, processions, &c., and accordingly we find that the case relates to these.

[Here follow the Questions put to the Attorney General, and his Answers thereto.]

In accordance with this opinion the Registrar intimates his intention to take proceedings against any officer, &c. of a Friendly Society who shall offend against the provisions of the Act.

We believe this is to be a step of great importance, and gladly make it known to our readers, in the hope that they will receive it as a new guarantee for the equitable disposal of the funds of these societies, at once making misapplication almost impossible, and doing away with the innumerable squabbles that have been too common of late.

The Framlingham Weekly News.

Friendly Societies.

There can be no doubt that a vast deal of swindling has been carried on in connexion with bodies of men who have formed themselves into—what they term—Friendly Societies. Two or three men in a village, or small town—a little "cuter" than their neighbours—start or "set" the club, which in the end is to dupe their "flat" unsuspecting brethren out of their hard-earned cash. Indeed, in many instances the Society seems formed for the special benefit of the village publican: the club meets at his house, he is chosen treasurer or chairman, and the rules specially provide that a certain sum shall be spent or allowed for each member on each meeting night for "the good of the house." Of course such societies go on amicably enough for a short time to allow for the accumulation of a few pounds; but a squabble soon arises and the society is broken up—the members minus their cash and the expected help in the hour of affliction. So numerous have been the complaints made by members of such societies to the Registrar of Friendly Societies in England, that he has thought it right to lay a case before the Attorney General, whose decision will entirely revolutionise all the Friendly Societies in England.

The

Report.

The result may be briefly stated thus: (1.) The Attorney General is of opinion that no part of the funds raised under the authority of the 9th or 25th section of the Act can be legally applied towards payment for "liquor at monthly meetings, band at anniversary, dinners to persons carrying banners, donation to Lancashire Relief Fund, &c.," for, he justly observes, "they are entirely unconnected either with the insurance and relief, &c., mentioned in the 9th section, or with the expenses of management referred to in the 25th." (2.) No part of any funds raised under the authority of a rule for incidental expenses, can be legally applied to any of the items of expense above mentioned, or to any similar items. The expression, "incidental expenses," must be reasonably understood, and, within those limits, may receive a liberal interpretation; but it is clear that the meaning cannot be stretched beyond matters necessary to, or directly connected with, the main purposes for which the Society is established.

In answer to the question, whether proceedings could be taken under section 24 against the member or officer so paying away the funds, he says, (3.) "Proceedings may be taken against the member or officer paying away the funds for any of these purposes, provided in doing so he is guilty of a 'wilful' misapplication of the funds. In order to put the wilfulness beyond a reasonable doubt, I would advise that the attention of the various officers, &c., should be pointedly called to the state of the law on this subject, and that they should be apprised that future misapplications will be treated as wilful, and punished accordingly." And he adds, (4.) "I am of opinion that no person, other than the Registrar, can commence proceedings under section 24, without the consent of the Society to his so doing being first obtained; but that, independent of any such consent, proceedings may be taken by the Registrar under 23 & 24 Vict. c. 58, s. 9."

Upon the strength of this advice, the Registrar gently intimates that he shall commence proceedings against any officer, &c., of a Friendly Society, who shall offend against the provisions of the 18th & 19th Vict. c. 63, s. 24. We think this a move in the right direction, for thousands of mechanics are this day subscribing their pence under the head of "incidental expenses" for useless show, and for the glorification of the landlord at whose house the meetings are held. To all working men we say, set your face like a flint against any Society that is not enrolled. Sick Clubs are useful institutions, and every working man should belong to one.

During the year 1862, several persons who had effected insurances with the Perseverance Life, Sick, and Endowment Society, lately held at 5, Waller-place, Newington, called at the Friendly Societies' Office in Abingdon-street, Westminster, to inquire whether any information had been lodged there, and and could be obtained, as to the residences of the officers of the above Society, in order that the applicants, in some cases, might be enabled to prefer their claims; and in others, to be satisfied as to the Society's ability to meet the demands which might be made upon it. It appears that this Society is now removed to 6, Mount-street, Westminster Bridge-road, Lambeth, and the following prospectus has been furnished to the Registrar, containing a list of the officers, with their residences, which had not been previously published:

The capital of 5,000*l.* does not appear to be invested in the Bloomfield-street Savings Bank, as, upon inquiry there on the 20th November 1862, the account of the Society only amounted to 3*s.*, and has never exceeded 20*l.*; and there has been no transaction in the account since the end of 1859. The following is the last annual statement of the Society.

The attention of the Registrar has been called to proceedings which have taken place in the Southwark police court against this Society; and the thanks of the public (particularly of the working classes) are due to Mr. Burcham, the magistrate at this Report. this police court, for the great trouble he took in investigating the matter. The following is a report of the case :—

THE PERSEVERANCE ASSURANCE SOCIETY.

AT the Southwark police court last week, Henry Knowlden, John Dron, and Thomas Oxford, the secretary and managers of the Perseverance Life Assurance and Sick Fund Benefit Society, of No. 6, Mount-street, Westminster-road, were placed at the bar before Mr. Burcham, for final examination, charged with conspiracy to defraud a number of poor, hardworking people out of various sums of money, under the pretence of insuring their lives and those of their relatives.

Mr. Edwin again appeared for the prosecution ; and Mr. Chipperfield defended the prisoners. The court was also, as on former occasions, crowded with persons anxious to hear the case.

As soon as the case was called on, Mr. Burcham said that on the last examination he issued a warrant for the apprehension of a man named Henry Coombs, one of the so-called managers of the sham Society. He wished to know whether that warrant had been executed.

Chadband, the warrant officer attached to the court, replied in the negative. He had been looking after him more than a week, and he believed he had absconded.

Mr. Chipperfield assured his Worship that he knew nothing of Coombs, or he should have advised him to surrender.

Mr. Burcham observed that as he was not yet apprehended, he should take the evidence against the prisoners, and send them for trial.

Mr. Nokes, the second clerk, then proceeded to take the evidence of the numerous witnesses as follows:—

Mr. Henry Francis Jackson, cashier at the Provident Institution and Bank, Bloomfield-street, Moorfields, said, that on the 11th May 1859, an account was opened at their place by Thomas Oxford, on behalf of the Perseverance Life Assurance and Sick Fund Society, by paying in to their credit 20 l. None had been paid in since, and before Christmas the whole was drawn out, leaving only 3 s. interest.

Mr. Burcham asked if he identified either of the prisoners as the party who opened that account.

Witness replied that he could not; but he produced the declarations made at the time, and the signature was like that of the defendant Oxford.

Mary Jamieson, an elderly female, residing at 36, Bermondsey New-road, said that she knew the prisoner Knowlden, the secretary to the Perseverance Life Assurance and Sick Fund Benefit Society. He came to her house in 1859 with another gentleman, and asked her to join the Society. She thought Coombs was the man who asked her, and she paid him the first money, 1 s. 8 d., entrance fee and subscription. She insured her two children, William and Henry, paying a penny a week for each, and her mother paying fourpence a week for her in addition. She paid three sums to Knowlden and Oxford,

Report.

Oxford, when they called on her every week. She continued paying that until about six weeks ago, when she discontinued, owing to some paragraphs she saw in the newspapers reflecting discredit on the Society. She had had no occasion to make any claim on the Society. When she left off paying she went to 6, Mount-street, Westminster-road, and saw Oxford and his son in a back room upstairs, pretending to be looking at some books, and she asked to look at the balance-sheet, according to the rules, at the same time tendering two-pence. Oxford said that he could not let her have one, as they were out print; and he also told her that she could not see the books at present, as the secretary was out. She never attended any meetings of the Society, neither had she known of any such meeting taking place. The printed books of rules of the Society, certified by Mr. Tidd Pratt, were given to her by Knowlden.

James Taylor said he became a member on the 29th August 1859. He paid 6 d. a week to assure himself and wife. Dron called on him first, representing the Society to be in a flourishing condition, and gave him the subscription book produced. He had paid altogether 4 l. 19 s. 6 d. Witness added that he paid that all to Dron, who told him that they would each be entitled to 9 l. at death.

Matilda Tapps, a widow, residing at 40, Charles-street, St. John's, said she joined the Society in 1860. She insured her own, two sons, and her daughter's lives. Her daughter died on 13th September and sent a medical certificate to that effect to the office, No 6, Mount-street. No notice was taken of that, and she went herself, and met young Oxford in the passage. He told her, his father would call on her on Saturday. He called, and told that as her daughter had consumption when she joined, she could have no money. The prisoner Knowlden was present, and, on appealing to him, he said he was only an agent.

In answer to Mr. Burcham, she said her daughter died two days after giving birth to a still-born child. She was not consumptive when she joined the Society, neither were any of her family consumptive. Her daughter's life was insured for 8 l. When they entered, witness suggested the propriety of having a medical examination like other offices. Oxford said there was no occasion for that, provided she answered the questions truly. She certainly thought it very strange as the proposal was not in writing. Finding she could get no redress, she mentioned the circumstances to Mr. Rendle, who took the matter in hand, but she could get no money.

Mr. Rendle, a gentlemen possessing considerable property in Southwark and Bermondsey, said that the last witness was a tenant of his, and after her daughter died, she came to him and told him the particulars of her claim. He had never heard of the Society before that. On making a few inquiries his suspicions were aroused, and he immediately proceeded to Oxford's and Knowlden's residences in Hampton-street and Francis-street, Newington, and received very bad characters of both, as they had left and gone to 6, Mount-street, Westminster-road. He went there, and saw only a little girl. She gave him a prospectus, and told him the secretary had not come yet. Witness then went to Mr. Tidd Pratt's office, and ascertained that that the Society had been enrolled and certified by him. From thence he went to the office of Mr. Wright, the solicitor to the Society, in New-Inn. He told witness that he had been much annoyed of late at the proceedings of the Society, but he knew nothing about it. He afterwards saw the defendants, and Oxford, jun., at the office, and asked to inspect their books in the presence of last witness. Oxford told him all he could show him was his collecting box. He then tendered 2 d., and asked to be supplied with a printed balance-sheet. Oxford said that was out of print. Witness also asked to look at an office copy, and to inspect the banker's and other books, but was told they could not be seen until the Thursday following. They had never been shown to him. Finding that it looked very much like a swindle, he attended at this court with the last witness, and the present proceedings were commenced.

Mary Ann Littlejohn, widow of Richard John Littlejohn, said she resided at 5, Devonshire-place, Walcot-square. She knew all the defendants. On the 8th August 1859, Oxford called at her husband's house in Bishop's-terrace, and set forth the advantages of joining the Society to him, and through his representations he joined the Society. She was also insured as well as her three children. She paid 4 d. a week for her husband, 2 d. for herself, and 2 d. a week for each of her children, making altogether 1 s. a week. Oxford gave her a book, and afterwards Dron brought her a policy, and she subsequently paid him her subscription when he called at her house. Her husband died on the 27th February last, and Dron neglected to call for three weeks at that time. Fearing it might injure her with the Society she called at the office, and paid Knowlden the last two payments. As soon as her husband's death took place, she sent a notice to Dron at the office, 6, Mount-street, Westminster-road. On the 6th March, she received a letter from Knowlden, saying that Mr. Dron was out of town, and he would lay the letter before the Board at its next meeting. Mr. Hill, a surgeon, of Carter-street, Walworth, attended her husband up to his death, and he gave her a certificate of his death, which she enclosed in an envelope, and left at the office, addressed to the Committee of the Perseverance Life Assurance Society. She had no answer to that; but a fortnight afterwards she called at the office, but no one was in attendance. A corn-dealer's shop was below, and from what she was told she went to Oxford's residence, No. 8, Lambeth-square, and saw him. She asked them why they had not attended to her demand. He told her that two of the Committee would call on her in the course of the day. She returned home, and Knowlden and Coombs called on her, when the former told her that the committee were not satisfied with the medical certificate, as it was not a proper printed form, and they thought her husband was consumptive before he joined the Society. She told them she could prove that he was not, and they left. Dr. Hill filled her up a printed form, and she took that to the office. Oxford, his son, Knowlden, and Coombs, called upon her after that, when Oxford told her that the Committee were not satisfied, because her husband's death was from tubercular disease. She got another certificate from Dr. Bevan, setting forth that tubercular consumption was not not hereditary, and that her husband had not that complaint when he joined. Mr. Hill also corroborated that, but the defendants took no notice of her demand until she procured the assistance of a friend. The defendants again called on her, when Dron said he was not satisfied, and they should not pay her as her husband's mother died of consumption. Through the intervention of a friend they afterwards offered to pay 3*l.* a quarter for two years, making up the 24*l.* due to her. They could give her no security for the performance of that, therefore that was not entered into. She had not received a farthing.

In answer to Mr. Burcham she said that their prospectus set forth that they had a capital of 5,000*l.*, in shares of 5*s.* each, in the Bloomsbury Bank. When she paid she thought she was dealing with an honourable society. When she found they disputed her claim she asked for the names of the arbitrators, when they told her that two were dead and others had not been appointed. When she went to the office she saw no books. It was a small dirty back room, full of tobacco smoke. She was willing to have received 6*l.* down, and the remainder in six months.

Mr. Robert Steers, inquirer's referee, 4, Great Queen-street, Westminster, said he had known last witness for some years, and, at her husband's death, she spoke to him about the claim she had on the Society. Three or four days after that, he saw Oxford and spoke to him about Mrs. Littlejohn's claims, and said to him, "Have you funds to meet it, as I understand you have not?" That was on the 24th April. Oxford said, "We have no funds. We have had so many draws upon us that our funds are exhausted." Witness told him to be candid with him, and tell him whether they were hopelessly insolvent. Oxford replied, "We are so, and we have no means of paying any one." Witness asked him if they had tried their friends. He replied that they had, and had entirely worn them out, and they could not get any more assistance from their friends. Witness told him that if such was the case they were acting very wrong in collecting money from the public. He replied that they were still collecting money, but had no funds to meet any claim. He then said that if such was the fact they were committing a felony, and he asked him what he did with the money he collected. Oxford told him that it was used to pay their individual expenses, and they had none to put by. Witness asked him if he could make any provision for Mrs. Littlejohn by borrowing money on security to pay her by instalments. He said it would be impossible to do so, as they had exhausted all their friends. This all occurred in the presence of Mrs. Littlejohn, in her parlour. The whole of the defendants were there, and young Oxford. After that they told him if they paid Mrs. Littlejohn, others would come on them, and they had no funds.

Elizabeth Hogan, widow of Daniel Hogan, residing at 12, Bradstreet, Cornwall-road, said about two years and half ago she insured her own and her husband's life in the defendants' society and afterwards her two children's. She paid 8*d.* a week for her husband, 1*d.* a week for each child, and 1*d.* a week for herself. Her husband died on the 15th May last, and she ought to have received from the Society 10*l.* She put in her claim at once, with a medical certificate, and and a few days afterwards Oxford called on her, and told her that they should not give her anything, as her husband died of consumption. She has never received a farthing.

In answer to Mr. Chipperfield she said that her husband had received 10*s.* a week for three months, and 5*s.* a week for another three months, while he was ill, and she might have received as much from the Society as she had paid in.

James Cooper, labourer, of Hampton-street, Newington, said he insured his son's life in the Society, and paid the weekly subscription to Don, upon his calling on him. His son died in April last, and witness sent in a medical certificate, but no notice was taken of it. He called twice at the office and could see no one. He then saw Oxford at his house, and asked them what they meant by it, when he told him that his son was out of limits, through Dron neglecting to call on him for three weeks. Witness spoke to Dron about his irregularity in calling for his subscription before that, when he told him that if anything should occur through his not calling, he would make it all right. He told Oxford that, when he promised to lay his case before the Committee again. He saw them again, but they refused to pay him. Witness never attended a meeting, neither did he ever receive any notice of meeting. He had also demanded a balance-sheet, and asked to look at the books, but they could not satisfy him.

Samuel Harris, a tailor, of Rockingham-gardens, Newington-causeway, said he became a member of the Society on the 2d May 1859, and insured himself and wife. He paid 3*d.* a week, sometimes to Oxford and at other times to Dron. When they called on him they said that the Society was in a flourishing condition, having a good capital, and that it was very strong. From what he heard of it, however, he ceased making his payments on the 22d October last. He never attended any meeting, neither did he receive any notice of meeting.

Edward Salmon said, that on the 8th August 1859, he became a member, and insured himself and wife. Oxford came first, and gave such a glowing description of the Society that he thought it was all safe. He paid 6*d.* a week up to the 27th July last. His wife received the two policies produced. He never attended a meeting, or received any notice of one all that time.

Maria Burford, wife of Henry Burford, said that on the 20th April she insured her husband, herself, and four children in the Society, owing to the flourishing description Oxford gave of it. He gave her a prospectus, headed capital 5,000 l., and told her the Society was increasing every day. The last payment was to Oxford, jun., about three weeks ago.

In answer to Mr. Burcham, she said her husband never received notice of meeting, neither did he attend a meeting.

Maria Mansfield said that Oxford called at her house in March last soliciting her to join the Society, telling her it was first-rate, and had plenty of capital. Her husband's life was accordingly insured, and she paid Oxford 3*d.* a week until last Monday three weeks. She saw no one else but Oxford.

Caroline Briggs said that Dron called on her in August 1859, and she insured her life for 6 l. She paid Dron 3 d. a week until a fortnight night ago; he had never called since. She never received a notice of meeting, or attended a meeting. Report.

Mr. Henry Tompkins, chief clerk in the Friendly Societies' Office, 28, Abingdon-street, said, that in consequence of directions he received from Mr. Tidd Pratt, he wrote a letter to the secretary of the "Perseverance Life Assurance and Sick Fund Friendly Society," at 6, Mount-street, Westminster-road, and put it in the post, requesting him to forward the balance-sheet, as that had been neglected. The Act of Parliament required it to be sent in yearly. About three weeks ago he received the balance-sheet produced, dated from the 24th June 1861, to the 23d June 1862, setting forth that there was a balance of 94*l.* in the treasurer's hands, signed Henry Knowlden, secretary, and Henry Coombs and Thomas William Oxford, auditors. Witness added, that when the rules of the society were sent in, they were examined and found to be in compliance with the Act of Parliament. Mr. Tidd Pratt certified them.

Mr. George Copp, cornchandler, 6, Mount-street, Westminster-road, said, that when he took possession of those premises 12 months ago, the defendants had a back room on the first floor for an office, and a brass plate was on the private door, on which was "Perseverance Life Assurance Society. Chief Office." They continued there to the present time, but he should be too glad to get rid of them, as they were a nuisance to him.

Mr. Burcham asked if they had ever held a meeting of the society since he had been there.

Witness replied in the negative, and said the defendants never had any regular hours of business.

Mr. George Hobbs, house agent, 32, Victoria-street, said that about the latter end of 1858 he let a house to the prisoner Dron, at Weller-place, Francis-street, Newington, but he did not know it was required as the chief office of the Perseverance Life Assurance Society, or he would not have let it. Dron referred to the Friend-in-Need Benefit Society, Exeter-arcade, Strand. The rent was afterwards paid, by all the defendants, by instalments. In September last they owed about 20*l.* rent, and an execution was put in, but the effects were not worth 10*s.* He was at last glad to get rid of them anyhow.

Mr. Burcham asked if any of the 20*l.* had been paid.

Witness replied—Not a farthing, sir.

Mr. Edwin said that concluded all the evidence he intended to bring forward against the defendants, although there were at least 50 other cases of a similar nature. He therefore called upon his worship to commit them for trial.

Mr. Chipperfield hoped that, before the case was concluded, he would be allowed to say a few words on behalf of the defendants. A great deal of prejudice had gone forth to the public against his clients, who had not been able to say one word in their favour. He assured his worship that they never were insolvent, and were at any moment prepared with funds to meet any just claim against them. A very respectable society of long standing was also willing to take up all the policies, and guarantee the benefits promised by the Perseverance Society.

Report.

Mr. Burcham told him that was their defence, and might do at the Old Bailey. He had made up his mind to send them to the Central Criminal Court for trial on the evidence adduced; therefore, it would be quite unnecessary for Mr. Chipperfield to make any remarks, unless he intended to call witnesses.

Mr. Chipperfield said he was not desirous of calling witnesses, as his worship had made up his mind to commit his clients for trial, but he wished it to go forth that they had funds in hand to meet all just claims, and that some hundreds had been paid where the demands had been honest and just.

Mr. Burcham then fully committed all the defendants for trial, but substantial bail was received for their appearance.

John Knowlden, secretary, Thomas Oxford, and John Dron, the committee and managers of the Perseverance Life Assurance and Sick Fund Benefit Society, of 6, Mount-street, Westminster-road, on Wednesday appeared before Mr. Burcham for final examination, charged with conspiring to defraud numbers of poor widows and others out of various sums of money, under pretence of insuring their lives.

Mr. W. Edwin again appeared for the prosecution.

The whole of the evidence in this case was completed on Friday, the 14th instant, and the witnesses were bound over to prosecute at the Central Criminal Court Sessions in September next; but, owing to the sessions being now sitting, his worship further remanded them until Wednesday, at the request of their solicitor. As soon as the prisoners had taken their places at the bar, Mr. Burcham said that, since the last examination, circumstances had come to his knowledge which confirmed his opinion as to the guilt of the defendants in defrauding the poor hard-working people of the metropolis and elsewhere by this sham society. He had received information that a son of one of the defendants had actually gone round to some of these poor people within the last few days, receiving money by pretending that their names and their claims would be transferred to another society, well established in public favour. If any such case were to be brought before him, he should know how to deal with the party. At the last examination the defendants' solicitor made a statement relative to some other society, which he alleged was willing to take all their liabilities. He (Mr. Burcham) then refrained from making any observation which might prejudice the defendants. He was now quite satisfied that no respectable society or person of solvency on whom reliance could be placed would lend themselves to such transactions. He wished to caution persons advancing money to this so-called society not to incur any further loss in expectation of any respectable person or society identifying themselves with such a concern. He had that morning received a letter, amongst others, from Mr. J. Baldwin, of Chatham. The writer says that in September 1859, young Oxford called upon him as collector to the society, representing it as in a flourishing condition, that they had a capital of 5,000*l.*, and that it was in a good position. Owing to that, he insured the lives of two of his children, continuing to make his payments up to the present time. On Wednesday last young Oxford called upon him, and received the usual subscription, telling him his name and claims would, after that week, be transferred to another another society. Now that was done after evidence was given before him that Oxford, one of the defendants, had admitted months ago that the society was hopelessly insolvent, and that they were without funds to meet any claims. Mr. Baldwin, however, had since seen the newspapers, so he, like a wise and prudent man, declined to have anything more to do with the parties connected with these sham societies, and determined not to pay them any more money. He hoped all others would act with the same caution. His worship then inquired whether there was any further evidence to be adduced. Report.

Mr. Nokes, the second clerk, replied in the negative.

Mr. Burcham observed that, as such was the case, he should now fully commit them for trial at the next Old Bailey Sessions, on the 21st September next, but he should require heavier bail for them. They must each enter into their own recognisances in the sum of 200*l.*, and find two sureties in 120*l.*, and give 24 hours' notice to the court.

Just before his worship quitted the bench, two substantial and well-known tradesmen offered themselves for Knowlden, and being approved of by Mr. Edwin, the solicitor for the prosecution, they were accepted, and he was liberated. The others were conveyed to Horsemonger-lane gaol in the van.

The Registrar has every reason to believe that the prosecution will be carried on by the Government on public grounds.

It appears to the Registrar that some alteration is required with respect to the settlement of disputes which, under the present law, are decided in the way directed by the rules, which generally provide for a reference to arbitration. The following article on this point, from the "Justice of the Peace" (2 May 1863), is worthy of consideration. The proper tribunal would appear to be the County Court or Justices of the Peace :—

Friendly Societies.

When we consider to how large an extent these institutions affect the pecuniary interests and general well-being of the humbler classes of the community, we shall readily perceive how essential it is that they should be surrounded with all possible securities and safeguards for rendering them effectual for their avowed objects, and that it is of the last importance that no practical means should be omitted for guarding against fraud or malversation on the part of those to whom their administration is entrusted. The importance of this object will be the more appreciated when we remind our readers that it has been shown by Parliamentary returns that towards the close of the year 1858 there were enrolled and certified upwards of 28,000 friendly societies, of which 571 had direct accounts with the Commissioners for the Reduction of the National Debt, with deposits amounting to 980,354 l.,

Report.

980,354*l.*, and that at the same date there were 9,994 societies possessing funds amounting to 1,562,784*l.* invested in savings banks. Nothing can have a more essential bearing upon the practical well-working of these institutions than the organization of a simple and intelligible machinery for the settlement of disputed questions; and when we bear in mind the imperfect education and the habits of the class usually interested in such questions, it must at once be admitted that the utmost simplicity and uniformity are of paramount importance in the adjudication of contested questions arising between the officers of friendly societies and their members. This object, however, we contend, is but imperfectly attained by the present law, and the removal of the present defects and anomalies seems to us to be a comparatively easy task. The popular notion of prompt, cheap, and effectual justice is by the sedulous exclusion of law and lawyers from all participation in the adjustment of disputed questions; and when that has been effected, and the matter left in the hands of what are designated plain practical business-men, it is assumed that all has been done which the necessity of the case requires; but this view of the subject, we think, is in many respects fallacious, and it will be found on examination, that the much-lauded simplicity and economy of these lay tribunals are often more apparent than real. Under the existing law disputes of the nature referred to may, under particular circumstances, either require to be settled by arbitration, by justices, or by the county court; and by the complexity incident to this diversity of proceeding, a large amount of inconvenience and injustice is unnecessarily imposed upon the poor and illiterate men who may have to adopt one or the other of these remedies. Amongst the matters which the 18 & 19 Vict. c. 63, s. 25, directs that the rules of societies established under that Act shall provide for is, "the manner in which disputes between the society and any of its members, or any person claiming by or through any member, or under the rules, shall be settled." By section 40 of the same Act, it is provided that every dispute between any member or members of any society established under that Act, or any of the Acts thereby repealed, or any person claiming through or under a member, or under the rules of such society, and the trustee, treasurer, or other officer or the committee thereof, shall be decided in manner directed by the rules of such society, and the decision so made shall be binding and conclusive on all parties without appeal; and by the 21 & 22 Vict. c. 101, s. 6, this provision is extended to disputes between the executors, administrators, nominee, or assigns of members and the society. The 40th section of the 18 & 19 Vict. c. 63, contains a proviso that where the rules of any society established under any of the Acts thereby repealed shall have directed disputes to be referred to justices, such disputes shall, from and after the 1st day of August 1855, be referred to and decided by the county court. But this proviso was repealed by the 5th section of the 21 & 22 Vict. c. 101, which, in certain cases of dispute, revives the jurisdiction of justices, and enacts that where the rules of any society established under the former Act, or any of the Acts thereby repealed, shall direct disputes to be referred to justices, then any justice of the peace acting in the county in which the place of business of such society shall be situated, upon complaint complaint made by any member, his executors, administrators, nominee, or assigns, or by any person claiming under the rules of the society, of any matter in dispute between him or them and the society, to summon the person against whom such complaint is made to appear, &c., and the justices may proceed to hear and determine the complaint according to the mode prescribed by Jervis' Act, 11 & 12 Vict. c. 43. The 18 & 19 Vict. c. 63, by ss. 41, 42, and 43, vests the power to deal with a numerous class of questions in the county court, and amongst others that of "the settlement of disputes that may arise or may have arisen in any society, the rules of which do not prescribe any other mode of settling such disputes, or to enforce the decision of any arbitrators, or to hear or determine any dispute, if no arbitrator shall have been appointed, or if no decision shall be made by the said arbitrators within 40 days after application has been made by the member, or person claiming through or under a member, or under the rules of the society." A large proportion of these societies in substance provide by their rules, that where disputes arise, they shall be referred to arbitration, and provision is usually made for the appointment of a certain number of arbitrators not interested in the funds of the society, and in cases of dispute names are to be put into a box or glass, and the three or other specified number first drawn are to be the arbitrators for deciding the matter in difference. The effect of these foregoing enactments is, that the specific remedy provided by the rules must be strictly pursued, and the jurisdiction of the courts is ousted. Thus in the recent case of Denton v. Marshall and others, 32 L. J. N. S. Ex, 89, where the rules of a society provided that disputes should be settled by a committee of the society, and the plaintiff proceeded in the county court for the recovery of a sum of money on the death of his wife, it was laid down that the tribunal appointed by the rules had exclusive jurisdiction, and that that of the county court was ousted; and the report shows that a writ of prohibition to stop the proceedings would probably have issued had the application been made in time. The same doctrine had been laid down in the earlier cases of Crisp v. Bunbury, 8 Bing. 394; Timms v. Williams, 3 Q. B. 413; Ex parte Payne, 5 D. & L. 679, and others; and the rule is said to be founded on the object of protecting the property of societies of this description, by preventing the expenditure of their funds in useless and expensive litigation, and providing a cheap and speedy remedy. The method is, therefore, advocated on the alleged ground of its expeditious and inexpensive character: but we have reason to believe that a careful examination of the practical working of the system will prove that under it the poor and ignorant are often subjected to vexatious obstruction and delay, and not infrequently to gross injustice and imposition. Law and lawyers are not very popular, and any proposition for withdrawing contested questions from their cognizance finds ready response; but we have no doubt that the power, at a small expense, with or without the intervention of a solicitor, of taking out a summons before justices, or in the metropolis in a police court, would be a cheaper, as it assuredly would be a prompter and more effectual remedy. No moderate expenditure can be called useless, if it gives effect to a just claim; and no so-called remedy is cheap, unless it be at the same time effectual. We must not be understood as casting any imputation on the abstract fairness and propriety of the rules themselves, which are habitually examined and certified by the zealous and able public officer appointed for that purpose; but it is to their practical working in numerous important particulars, which is to a large extent withdrawn from effective supervision, that our objections are addressed. The questions that generally arise in cases of dispute are of the simplest character, such as whether a member's subscriptions have, or have not, been punctually paid up, and the like; and they do not involve complicated questions of account, such as are generally regarded as peculiarly fitted for inquiry by means of arbitration; and the prompt and effectual decision of these simple issues by a skilled and disinterested tribunal would, in our judgment, be of incontestable benefit. And here, it must be remarked, that though nominally disinterested, the arbitrators appointed under the rules are by no means free from bias, as they are appointed by, are dependent upon, and are closely connected with, the officers of the society. No person not directly conversant with the proceedings of many of these societies can form any adequate notion of the perplexity and bewilderment of the poor and aged widow of a deceased member, who, at the moment of her bereavement, and in the season of her greatest need, is informed, on her application to a magistrate for advice and assistance, that he has no power to interfere, that the rules prescribe arbitration, and that she must give notice in conformity with such rules, and proceed to ballot for arbitrators. The ground of resistance to her claim is frequently that her husband, who may have been a subscribing member for many years, has fallen into arrear within a few weeks of his death, or has paid his subscription to an agent who may have been dismissed, and whose acts are repudiated; and these are the questions with respect to which the intervention of a magistrate would be so valuable. The county court, in which it has been seen from the foregoing extracts many important functions are still vested, would, no doubt, be as fully an effectual, though it is certain it would not be an equally economical tribunal. But we desire to rest our objections on the facilities for fraud and oppression presented by the much lauded system of private arbitration, against which the nominally disinterested character of the referees is but an inadequate protection, and to the unnecessary complexity and diversity of the methods prescribed by the existing law; and legal practitioners alone can be fully aware how difficult it sometimes is to determine which of the several remedies prescribed can be safely and properly resorted to. In addition to their intervention in the cases provided by the rules, the law has already vested in justices the power of adjudicating upon questions of fraud, and there would be little difficulty in extending their jurisdiction, and empowering them to deal with ordinary disputes, whereby, in our opinion, an unnecessary anomaly would be removed, increased harmony introduced into the working of the law, and a substantial benefit conferred upon the poor man. Of course we must not for one moment be understood as denying that a large proportion of the certified societies are administered with perfect good faith and integrity, and are conducted with a conscientious regard to the objects of their institution; but many of them form exceptions to the rule; and it is the repression of

Report.

of the evils consequent upon their proceedings that the change we have suggested is directed. Report.

The 44th section of the 18 & 19 Vict. c. 63, gives a sort of recognition to uncertified societies, by providing, subject to certain formalities and conditions, for the settlement of disputes in manner directed by their rules; but we doubt whether the existence of every society not duly certified and enrolled, should not altogether be prohibited. These societies have been referred to in various Parliamentary reports, and the unsoundness of many of them, from the insufficiency of the contributions of members, and from other causes, have been repeatedly pointed out: and from a knowledge of the mischief worked by these irresponsible and ephemeral societies, we think it of extreme urgency that the Legislature should institute a searching investigation into their proceedings, and by official restrictions and penalties put a stop to frauds, which are in so many cases carried on with comparative impunity.

Savings Banks.

Savings Banks are so much connected with the Working Classes, that the Registrar thought it might be interesting to give the Number and Classification of Depositors in the several Savings Banks in the United Kingdom, and the Amount of Deposits for the year ending 20 November 1862, viz.:

Report.

The sums stated in this Account are taken from the Annual Returns, to 20 November 1862, made to the Commissioners for the Reduction of the National Debt by the Trustees of Savings Banks, except in the case of Seaham Harbour and Denbigh, which, having made no return, are altogether excluded.

The number and amount of Friendly Societies above shown relate to those Societies only having funds deposited in Savings Banks, and are exclusive of those Societies whose funds are deposited direct with the Commissioners.

The number of accounts in Savings Banks, including the Friendly Societies investing direct with the Commissioners, in the United Kingdom, was, on 20 November 1862, 1,558,136, and the amount of investments, 42,592,494 l.

Post Office Savings Banks.

The operations of the Post Office Savings Banks commenced in September 1861, and the progress of the banks from that time, and especially during the past year, has been highly satisfactory, about 180,000 depositors having opened accounts in them during the year 1862.

In that year 255 additional Post Office Savings Banks were opened in England and Wales, 300 in Ireland, and 299 in Scotland, including, as in the case of money order offices, the neighbouring islands.

The whole number of Post Office Savings Banks at the end of 1862 was, therefore, 2,532, viz., 1,933 in England and Wales, 300 in Ireland, and 299 in Scotland.

Many of these banks have attracted a large number of depositors, and 76 only of the whole number opened have failed to obtain depositors, so that the advantages which they offer appear to be understood and appreciated throughout the whole Kingdom.

Since the beginning of the present year, 332 additional banks have been opened, making 2,864 banks in all, and the gross gross amount of deposits, including interest up to the 1st January, has increased from 2,136,680*l.* to 2,952,296*l.* Report.

Much use has been made of Savings Banks by Friendly, Provident, and Charitable Societies, and by the managers of Penny Banks, as shown by the subjoined number of accounts opened with these bodies:—

One important advantage of Post Office Savings Banks is, that they give any person the power of making a deposit or taking out money in any part of the country in which he may happen at the time to be, without reference to the place were his account was originally opened.

This power is largely used. Last year there were not fewer than 20,872 such deposits and 15,842 withdrawals.

Report.

The Annual Returns or Annual Reports received during the last year were about 10,200, being an excess of 1,300 over those received the previous year, though the number sent out was 21,433; and there is no doubt but that by taking proceedings for recovering the penalty, under 23 & 24 Vict. c. 58, s. 7, the number in future will be greatly increased. In the Appendix will be found the amount of funds and the number of members, extracted from the Returns received.

John Tidd Pratt,
Registrar of Friendly Societies in England.

Friendly Societies' Office,
28, Abingdon street, Westminster, S.W.
14 July 1863.

APPENDIX.

The following Abstract of the Returns received from Friendly Societies previous to the 1st of June 1863 will afford some useful information with respect to the number of members and the pecuniary position of these Societies. The "amount of funds" is that stated in the Return; but this stated amount, in some instances, doubtless includes bad debts and doubtful investments, which will never be recovered; in by far the great majority of cases, there is no doubt that the sum stated is actually at the disposition of the respective Societies. The number of members also may, in some few instances, include honorary members; but the instances are so rare that it may be taken for granted that the "number of members" means the number of effective members only.

The Returns are arranged in the following manner:—

1.—According to Counties:
England.
Wales.

2.—According to Class of Society:
"Friendly Societies" having no other distinctive denomination.
Ancient Order of Foresters.
Manchester Unity of Odd Fellows.
Other Orders, or Secret Societies.
Societies for providing Burials only.
Societies for granting Annuities only.
Societies composed of Females only.
Societies composed of Sunday School Children and Teachers only.

No returns from "Districts," nor from "Widow and Orphan Funds," of Orders have been included in this abstract, on account of the members belonging to them being already referred to in the returns from their respective lodges.

No returns from societies have been included which did not furnish the "Amount of Funds," and "Number of Members;" because a return without these particulars is valueless. The number of societies which should send returns is about 20,000.
